

House Approves Limited Health Care Bill, 380-23

Minimum Provisions Included But Senate May Expand Them

Washington —(A)— The house today passed a limited program of health care for some of the aged. A 380-23 roll call vote approved the bill. Sixteen Democrats and seven Republicans voted against the bill. Voting for it were 244 Democrats and 136 Republicans.

The measure now goes to the senate where advocates of broader plans of health care hope to expand it.

The house debated the bill yesterday and gave it indirect approval then by shouting down a motion to send it back to committee. Such a move would have killed it.

The formal roll call vote was held over until today to give absent members an opportunity to record their positions. Some members were attending funeral services for Rep. Douglas H. Elliott (R-Pa.).

Calls Bill "Sham"

The health program is the most controversial part of a long bill to amend the social security laws. The house plan is admittedly a minimum measure, but was the only one able to muster a majority of supporters in the house ways and means committee after eight weeks of disputes. It would set up a state-federal program, applying to persons 65 and older who are not actually on public relief, but so close to the border that they could not meet heavy medical expenses. An estimated 500,000 to one million persons a year might actually receive benefits.

Rep. Aime J. Forand (D-RI), author of a bill to provide hospitalization and other benefits to some 12 million social security retirees, denounced the house measure as "a sham." He urged votes for the omnibus bill nevertheless, saying the other social security changes are needed and the health portion "won't hurt, although it won't help."

5 Racing Yachts Disabled in Gale

Hamilton, Bermuda —(A)— Heavy gales raised havoc today among the 135 yachts racing here from Newport, R. I. Patrol ships reported that five were disabled.

One of these was reported to be the Doncherry owned by Sir Bayard Dill of Bermuda in which the Bermuda governor, Sir Julian Gascoigne, was making his first ocean start. A radio distress call from the Doncherry said she was disabled 130 miles northeast of Bermuda but in no immediate danger.

Three of the Class D—the smallest in the race—were in trouble. These included the Souvenir owned by C. W. Wharton, Jr., of Stonington, Conn., which is in leaking condition and proceeding under power to Bermuda, and the Windquest of A. Justin Wasley, Bristol, Conn., disabled but proceeding under power.

The Cotton Blossom IV, a 71-foot yawl belonging to Walter H. Wheeler, Jr., of Stamford, Conn., lost its rudder.

Japan, U.S. Put Treaty Into Effect at Secret Ceremony

U. S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur, left, and Japanese Foreign Minister Aichi Fujiyama, right, exchange security treaty ratification documents after signing of the security pact at the foreign minister's heavily guarded official residence in Tokyo Wednesday. The exchange, staged against a background of month-long leftist riots attempting to drive Japan into neutrality, makes immediately effective a treaty continuing American military bases in Japan another 10 years.

Vote Expected To Ban Payola

Bill Would Also Prohibit Rigging Of Quiz Shows

Washington —(A)—The house votes today on a sweeping bill to make payola and quiz show rigging a federal crime and outlaw other abuses in the TV-radio industry.

Little or no opposition was indicated to the bill's chief provisions although efforts to change some of the terms were considered likely.

However, a possibly bitter fight appeared in prospect over promised attempts to write in an amendment to put television and radio networks under federal regulation.

Wants Regulation

"I most certainly intend to offer a network regulation amendment," Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich) told a reporter. The house commerce committee rebuffed his efforts to add such a provision when it approved the bill earlier this month.

Bennett later blamed lobbying pressure by the broadcasting industry for defeat of his proposal. He said the action left the bill "woefully deficient."

To help assure senate consideration despite the adjournment drive, the house committee attached its bill to a minor senate-passed measure dealing with applications for broadcast licenses. Assuming the house passes it, this would eliminate the need for separate action by a senate committee.

The bill stems from the series of headline-making inquiries by the commerce committee's legislative oversight subcommittee into quiz show fixing and undercover payoffs to disc jockeys to plug records.

The bill would make both payola and quiz show rigging criminal offenses punishable by up to one year in prison and $10,000 fine. It would require that all broadcast matter for which any kind of payment, direct or indirect, is made must be identified on the air as being paid.

2 Planes Get Guides to Safety in Overcasts

Chicago —(A)— Ingredients for disaster:

A small airplane traveling between 6,500 feet and 14,000 above ground; fuel supply is rapidly diminishing; surrounding the plane is a thick mixture of fog, heavy clouds, rain; the ground, and the nearest airport, is out of sight because of the heavy overcast.

You're lost, and it's frightening.

That was the predicament two pilots found themselves in yesterday, one near Pittsburgh the other east of Chicago, over Lake Michigan.

Dramatic Rescues Both were dramatically rescued, guided to the ground, by intervention of another aircraft, radio and radar.

Henry Stiffel, 35-year-old Riverdale, N. J., businessman, was en route to Teterboro, N. J., from Lansing, Mich., and ran into bad weather. The federal aviation agency directed him to the Pittsburgh area and there he found more bad weather.

He told the air traffic control office at Pittsburgh of his new found trouble. The office knew the plane of Ken Frey, 43, pilot of a twin-engine craft owned by the Nashville Tennessean, was in the area. It directed Frey to Stiffel's plane.

Flash Floods Hit Portions Of Indiana

Indianapolis —(A)— Flash floods boiled over highways and railroad tracks in southern and western Indiana today after violent thunderstorms that dumped five inches and more of rain. Fallen trees and other debris littered the area.

Rains of three to four inches fell from Madison northwest to Crawfordsville and Covington, and the weather bureau said recurring thunderstorms are likely the rest of the week.

Winds up to 60 miles an hour toppled trees across roads around Terra Haute, Brazil, Martinsville and Nashville.

Charles Barnhart, 56, a state highway department worker from Center Point, was killed in a traffic collision on his way to clear fallen trees near Clay City in west central Indiana.

Flash floods reportedly surrounded homes at Borden, 15 miles northwest of New Albany. Monon railroad service was cut off between Bloomington and Louisville by floodwaters over the tracks south of Borden.

Doubts Israel Need Return Eichmann

Lodge Thinks Adoption of Resolution Will be Sufficient

United Nations, N. Y. —(A)— The United States made clear today that it believes the current U. N. debate on Adolf Eichmann does not involve his return to Argentina by Israel. U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge told the 11-nation security council he thought the controversy could be closed by the adoption of an Argentine resolution finding that the transfer of the former nazi official to Israel last month violated Argentine sovereignty.

This and the apology already given by Israel, he said, would be all that was necessary to meet the "adequate reparation" referred to in the pending resolution.

The resolution appeared certain to win overwhelming approval.

Consults Amadeo

Mrs. Goda Meier, Israel's foreign minister, had asked Argentine Delegate Mario Amadeo yesterday to explain what was meant by the phrase "adequate reparation." Amadeo did not reply immediately, but Lodge said he wanted to explain how the United States understood the resolution.

Diplomatic sources said Lodge had consulted Amadeo before making his statement. There had been some speculation that Argentina would interpret the resolution as calling for Eichmann's return.

A vote on the resolution was expected this afternoon or tomorrow. Some sources anticipated unanimous approval; others thought several nations might abstain.

Gronouski Proposes State Revenue From Commercial Banks

Milwaukee —(A)— State Tax Commissioner John Gronouski told a closing session of the Wisconsin Bankers association Wednesday that he would favor some means of producing revenues from commercial banks.

Wisconsin's "largely tax-free" commercial banks, Gronouski said that of the state's 546 banks, 314 paid no Wisconsin income tax at all in 1959 and only 127 banks paid sums ranging up to $500.

One in a Million

Mother of Dead Girl Helps Win Dismissal of Manslaughter Case

Los Angeles —(A)— Perhaps a one-in-a-million chance caused Douglas Beane's bullet that killed a gopher to ricochet on and kill a little neighbor girl, too.

The victim's mother who caused dismissal of a manslaughter charge against him is "probably one person in a million," says Beane.

"I don't know how I'd feel in such a situation," the 25-year-old auto repair shop owner told a reporter yesterday. "I have children. Only a person who believes wholeheartedly in God would have an attitude like hers."

Beane fired a .30-caliber carbine at a gopher that popped its head out of a hole in his back yard in suburban Lynwood last Feb. 25. The gopher died.

The bullet zinged on through a rusty, corrugated tin fence and through the tarpapered, 3-16-inch plywood wall of a house at the rear.

Britain Asks If Soviet Arms Plan Is 'Trap'

Russia Challenged To Deny Statement Made in Red China

Geneva —(A)— Britain challenged Russia today to repudiate a Chinese communist view on the new Soviet disarmament plan. David Ormsby-Gore, British minister of state, told the 10-nation disarmament conference that a leading Chinese official in Peiping had described the plan as a communist trap to isolate the United States.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin refused to be drawn into any discussion of the report, but he scribbled notes furiously as the British disarmament expert spoke.

Ormsby-Gore said a dispatch from the British embassy in Peiping quoted Liu Chang - Sheng, vice chairman of the All-China Federation of Trade Unions, as saying on June 8 that the communist countries never expected the west to take the new Soviet disarmament plan seriously.

Don't Expect Approval Liu said Red China supported the plan, but added:

"It is inconceivable that imperialism will accept a proposal for general and complete disarmament. The purpose of putting forward such a proposal is to arouse people throughout the world to unite and oppose the imperialist scheme for an arms drive and war preparations, and to unmask the aggressive and bellicose nature of imperialism before the peoples of the world in order to isolate as far as possible the imperialist bloc headed by the United States so that they will not dare to unleash a war lightly."

Ormsby - Gore told Zorin: "We cannot avoid taking note of such statements."

"Does Mr. Zorin agree with this statement by his Chinese allies?" the British delegate asked.

He received no reply.

Khrushchev to Visit Cuba During August

Mexico City —(A)— Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will visit Cuba some time in August, Soviet Ambassador Vladimir I. Bazikin said here yesterday. He did not specify the exact date.

Act to Foil Any Move By Leftists; Kishi Says He Prepares to Resign

BY GENE KRAMER

Tokyo —(A)— The United States and Japan put their new mutual security treaty into force today at a secretly arranged ceremony, foiling plans of Japanese left-wingers to delay final action on the controversial pact.

Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi, for weeks the target of fanatical demonstrations by radical students, socialists, communists and labor forces, said he would resign now that the treaty had become law.

Kishi set no date for the resignation, but a spokesman said the cabinet would quit en masse as soon as Kishi's liberal democratic party decides on his successor. Since the party has a majority in both houses of parliament, approval of its choice is a certainty.

U. S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II and Foreign Minister Aichi Fujiyama met at Fujiyama's heavily guarded residence and exchanged documents covering their governments' ratification of the treaty.

The exchange immediately made the pact effective, continuing the U. S.-Japanese military alliance, giving the United States military bases in Japan at least for the next 10 years and pledging the United States to defend Japan against attack.

How Reds Were Bailed In a last-ditch effort, the leftists had threatened to blockade the U. S. embassy and the foreign ministry to keep MacArthur and Fujiyama from meeting for the ratification exchange. This is how they were thwarted.

President Eisenhower and Sec. of State Christian A. Herter signed the formal instruments of U. S. ratification before the president left on his Far Eastern trip but left the dates blank. The documents were flown to Japan. As soon as the White House phoned Eisenhower in Hawaii.

Ashland Native on Most Wanted List

Washington —(A)— A fast-moving burglar who has operated coast-to-coast, specializing in well-to-do homes, today was put on the FBI's list of "10 most wanted men."

He is 42-year-old Richard Peter Wagner, a native of Ashland county, Wis., who escaped from the federal correctional institution at Sandstone, Minn., last Dec. 17.

The FBI said Wagner, of many aliases, has spent most of his adult life in prison, including a stretch at Alcatraz after one of his convictions for interstate transportation of stolen firearms.

Party Against Sales Tax Plan

Democratic Leaders Take Firm Stand Against Proposal

Milwaukee —(A)— The Wisconsin Democratic convention is expected to make an anti-sales tax plank part of the 1960 election-year platform despite contrary suggestions from Gov. Gaylord Nelson. A little smoke but no fire is likely to accompany the action. The reason: Most of the intra-party fighting on the subject is over.

The 3-day convention opens Friday.

Nelson has made many appeals that his party refrain from taking a firm stand on any specific method of taxation until the recommendations of a citizens tax committee he appointed are known.

Won't Change Stand

Other officeholders and party leaders, who attribute part of their political success to anti-sales tax campaigns of 1958, have no intention of letting a good thing go.

In the absence of renewed demands from Nelson, the convention is expected to approve a financial plank complementing the governor on his tax approach but putting the party on record against a general sales tax.

A close source to Nelson said the resolution would about duplicate the party's announced position of last year. It will come from a platform subcommittee headed by William Duffy, a Green Bay attorney, and will reach the convention floor Saturday afternoon.

Saturday's agenda also calls for naming a national committeeman and committeewoman. Both elections will be contested.

Little Anti-American Feeling in Jap Riots, USIA Chief Asserts

Washington —(A)— The head of the U. S. Information agency said today there was "virtually no anti-American feeling" in the Japanese demonstrations that forced abandonment of President Eisenhower's good will visit to Japan.

George V. Allen, USIA director, told a senate appropriations subcommittee that rather than anti-American sentiment as such, the demonstrations heavily reflected the "pacifism and neutralism" the United States encouraged in Japan after World War II, and communist exploitation of this.

He said many opposition groups in Japan had gone to great lengths to emphasize the demonstrations were designed to prevent consummation of the U. S. - Japanese military pact.

Trainmen, Railroads Agree on Wage Boost

Chicago —(A)— The 14-month-old wage dispute between the nation's railroads and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen has ended with a settlement of a 4 per cent pay increase over 16 months.

It struck 4-year-old Donna Sword in the back as she watched television at the neighbor's house while her mother was at work. Several weeks later, after an operation and sufficient apparent recovery she could play with Beane's two young sons, she died.

A coroner's jury disagreed on whether Beane was criminally responsible for Donna's death.

Superior Judge Evelle J. Younger dismissed the manslaughter charge Tuesday after reading a letter from her mother, Mrs. Frank Sword. It said in part:

"I do not believe any good purpose could be served by insisting that this case be tried. Douglas will punish himself 1,000 times more than any law could do."

"For the good of everyone and for our own peace of mind, we feel that the case should be dismissed."

Judge Younger told a reporter he had dismissed the charge in the interest of justice because Beane is "a good husband, a good father and a good citizen."

"The greatest possible good can come from this tragedy only if it prevents similar accidents in the future," the judge added.

Democrats Try to Help School Bill

Leaders of Both Parties Surprised by Move of Group To Disallow Compromise

Washington — House Democratic leaders today sought to breathe new life into a school construction bill apparently doomed to death by the house rules committee.

The committee took both Republican and Democratic leaders by surprise Wednesday by refusing to allow the house to seek a compromise with the senate on school legislation. The two houses have passed widely differing bills on the subject.

With congress rushing toward adjournment, the committee's action spells doom for the bill this year unless it can be prevailed upon to reconsider the matter, or the senate agrees to pass the house bill in much its present form.

Political Point
Election year politics loom large in efforts to revive the bill, which would provide federal grants to help states build schoolrooms.

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, who would like to be the Democratic candidate for president, badly wants a school bill to bolster his bid for the nomination. His fellow Texan, House Speaker Sam Rayburn, would like to help him get it.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the probable Republican candidate, is also pushing for passage of a school bill, if for no other reason than to deprive the Democrats of an issue in the forthcoming campaign.

Nixon conferred last week with House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana in an effort to get favorable rules committee action on the measure.

Conservation Vital to State

Nelson Calls for More Money for Natural Resources

La Crosse — Gov. Gaylord Nelson said Wednesday night that Wisconsin's greatest assets are its conservation resources and more money should be spent to preserve them.

"We must begin a long-range program to protect these assets," Nelson said at a meeting of the Badger State Sportsmen club.

"These basic assets are more important than the number of fish and game bagged," Nelson reiterated his criticism of the conservation commission, contending it should not have authority over administrative matters.

The governor said he planned to set up a 15-man non-political natural resources commission that would prepare long-range objectives for conservation and reevaluate them every two years and report to the governor.

Sprays Against Bugs, Gets Colorful Results

Miami, Fla. — Joe Jarkey had almost dropped off to sleep when mosquitoes began buzzing in his ear.

He groped drowsily, found a spray can and squirted all around. Then he slept. Daylight revealed yesterday that the can he thought held insecticide actually was filled with Chinese red lacquer.

Nuclear Bases Not Wanted by Labor Party

British Group Asks That U.S. Bombers be Allowed, However

London — In a major switch in its defense policy, the British labor party is urging that nuclear rocket bases in Britain — but not bomber bases — be denied to the United States.

A policy statement from the minority party's executive committee Wednesday night also proposed:

That Britain make no more nuclear weapons, relying instead on American nuclear power as a deterrent to aggression.

That the United States pledge never to use the hydrogen bomb without prior approval by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

No H-Bombs
That western patrol planes "in present (world) circumstances" not carry H-bombs. Britain's conservative government and the U. S. administration are reported studying plans for the U. S. Strategic Air Command and the Royal Air force to join in a worldwide, round-the-clock patrol of hydrogen bombers.

Explaining opposition to the bases for U. S. intermediate range missiles now being built in Britain, a party spokesman said they would be "sitting duck" targets for Russia and that they have no deterrent value, serving only to put Britain on the firing line.

American bomber units based in Britain, the spokesman continued together with other SAC units around the world, provide sufficient protection until the Americans get an intercontinental ballistic missile on the defense line.

Although the executive committee also expressed full confidence in party leader Hugh Gaitskill, the defense policy switch was obviously a concession to Frank Cousins, boss of the giant Transport and General Workers union, who has been urging immediate nuclear disarmament by Britain, without waiting for other nations.

No Beer and Skittles For First Spaceman To Return From Star

World May Age Millions of Years, Voyager Could End Up in Zoo, Dr. Teller Says

Los Angeles — All is not going to be beer and skittles for the first space traveler who reaches the nearest star and returns to a ticker tape reception.

Dr. Edward Teller, noted physicist and father of the hydrogen bomb, said the space pioneer might find himself 50 years older, the world three million years older, "and instead of being a hero he might end up in a zoo."

"In concordance with the laws of physics, someone in this lifetime could go to Andromeda, but I recommend against it," Dr. Teller told a University of California extension series Wednesday night.

Where Is Life?
"If there is life out there, then where is everybody? Is it possible that it's a form of life that we may not recognize as such, and isn't it even more possible that we in our galaxy may just be subterranean living in a God-forsaken outpost? There is a possibility that we may soon be able to tune in via radio on noises 20,000 light years away in the center of the galaxy, and if we hear what I think we will hear, then I will become an isolationist with regard to space exploration."

The scientist's mention of a space explorer's winding up in a zoo was a light reference to Einstein's theory of relativity and the possibility of a spaceman's becoming a modern Rip Van Winkle on his return.

Dr. Teller said that getting to the next star will be difficult if the rocket is powered with hydrogen fusion. So powered, 1-20th the speed of light would be its maximum, and

Democrats Gather For Kennedy Poll

Albany, N. Y. — The New York state delegation to the Democratic national convention gathered today for a poll that was expected to put Sen. John F. Kennedy unofficially near the 500-vote level in his battle for the party nomination for president.

Party sources predicted Kennedy would receive about 100 of the delegation's 114 votes and the balance would be scattered among Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson, Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Stuart Symington, in that order.

A majority of 761 votes will be needed to win nomination at the convention, which will open July 11 in Los Angeles.

Veteran Presidential Elector Again Named By Montana GOP

Helena, Mont. — Rancher George C. Sinton, who says he has served longer than any other man in history as a presidential elector, was picked again as a elector by the Montana Republican party Wednesday.

Sinton cast his first electoral vote for president in 1928. That was when Herbert Hoover was the successful GOP candidate.

Since then Sinton has been electoral nominee in Montana each year. The Montana state GOP convention elected 14 delegates yesterday. Along with their 15 alternates, they all voted to support Vice President Richard M. Nixon for their party's presidential nomination.

Nixons Hear Evangelist

Graham Gives Reasons for Bad Marriages

Washington — Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon were among 17,000 who heard evangelist Billy Graham give advice Wednesday night on happy married life.

The Nixons and their 14-year-old daughter, Tricia, attended the fourth night of Graham's national capital crusade in Griffith stadium. Nixon was introduced by Graham as "a golfing partner who usually beats me."

Liberian Vice President William Tolbert, who aided Graham in his African crusade, was on the speaker's platform.

Graham said divorces and juvenile delinquency are the result of ignoring "God's rules and regulations and laws concerning marriage" and the home.

Faulty Basis
He said many marriages fail because the mates have not awaited "God's choice. Some get married because of a feeling of inferiority, a fear of loneliness, a fear of financial insecurity, sexual curiosity."

Nixon Shouldn't Have Country, Kennedy Says

Democrat Throws Away Speech and Lashes at GOP

Washington — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) says "I don't think we should turn this country over to Vice President Nixon in this critical time."

Kennedy threw away a prepared speech at Camden, N. J., Wednesday night to launch his attack on Nixon, the probable Republican presidential candidate.

Kennedy said people on other continents quote men like Woodrow Wilson, Thomas Jefferson, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman. But, he said, they don't quote Nixon.

"We must elect a president who will make people get up in the morning and wonder what he did instead of what (Soviet Premier Nikita) Khrushchev did," Kennedy said.

One of Kennedy's strongest opponents for the Democratic nomination, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, took the senate floor Wednesday to lash at administration foreign policy.

"There is a depressing lack of vital new ideas in our foreign policy," the Texan said, adding "I cannot find the bold steps that would reach the hearts and souls of men throughout the world and convince them that their future lies with freedom."

Johnson called for great international programs to stamp out disease, to move food surpluses to hungry areas, to break down communications barriers between people and to harness water resources in arid regions.

ity or a passion or out of spite or for social prestige." Graham pointed to his own marriage as "16 years of honeymoon."

In outlining some responsibilities married persons must meet, he said:

The wife should be attractive for her husband, keep the house clean, trim household expenses and refrain from gossiping, nagging and complaining. The husband should be attentive to his wife with small gifts and set an example for his children through regular prayer.

Daylight Saving Laws Not Observed By Body

The folks who advocate daylight saving time should have a talk with old mother nature. She would explain that merely writing a law on the statute books does not change physical habits of her children.

At the beginning and at the end of the period of daylight saving, there is certainly a time when the body is in quite a state of physical upheaval.

Changes in toilet habits, eating and sleeping habits throw the body into quite a turmoil. During the period of adjustment the folks who have regular jobs and schedules to meet might have symptoms of nervousness, irritability, digestive disturbances and so on.

Mothers will have problems with the children. Along with the above, sleeping habits are especially upset.

Folks dealing with transportation and schedules, not to mention the farmers really come close to a nervous breakdown.

Lucky thing we can't regulate the sun and weather. What a mess we would have.

U2 Flight Control Left in Minor Worker's Hands

Sen. Mansfield Makes Charge in Speech Given Before Senate on Eisenhower Rule

BY ERNEST B. VACCARO

Washington — Sen. Mike Mansfield (D - Mont.) charged today that facts indicate the control and timing of U2 flights were left "in the hands of various obscure employees of the bureaucracy."

"Who runs this administration in the vital matters of foreign policy and defense?" Mansfield asked in a prepared senate speech.

"It is not a new question. The shocking disarray of departments, agencies and sub-agencies through which this nation tries to conduct the foreign relations and defense of the nation, at best, borders on a national disgrace, and at worst, courts national disaster," he added.

The assistant senate Democratic leader focused on the handling of the U2 spy plane incident in a lengthy attack on the Eisenhower administration's foreign policies. He asked for a sweeping overhaul of defense and foreign policy machinery.

Not Coordinated
Mansfield is a member of the senate foreign relations committee which conducted hearings into the U2 flights and the events that followed.

He said that "while politically responsible officials knew generally of this program of U2 overflights they did not subject them to continuous and coordinated scrutiny." He said that neither President Eisenhower, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter nor Sec. of Defense Thomas S. Gates, Jr., pushed the button for the ill-fated U2 flight brought down inside Russia May 1.

"If we can draw any conclusion from the public record," Mansfield said, "it is that this particular flight owes its origin more to bureaucratic inertia, lack of coordination and control and insensitivity to its potential cost than it does to any conscious decision of politically responsible leadership."

Wants to be Big

Houston City Council Votes To Annex All of Texas County

Houston, Texas — The Houston city council Wednesday night voted to make Houston the largest city in the world in area even though Mayor Lewis Cutler called the idea "preposterous."

The council voted to annex about 1,100 square miles, which is everything not annexed by some other Harris county city. The annexation would give Houston an area of 1,560 square miles.

A second and final reading of the annexation ordinance will be held within about 30 days.

Idea Preposterous
"Annexing the entire county is preposterous," Cutler said during a 4-hour bitter debate on the move. He and Councilman Johnny Goyen were the only ones to vote against the annexation. Six councilmen voted for it.

Councilmen also voted for a motion calling for city planning groups to propose amendments to the ordinance to de-annex any area deemed unnecessary for Houston's future growth. The council agreed that the annexation ordinance would have to be amended before the second reading.

Lose Rights
On the basis of preliminary census figures Houston is the sixth largest city in the nation in population with 932,680 residents, an increase of 56.4 per cent since 1950. The population of the Houston metropolitan area is estimated at 1,232,179.

Cutler said that Houston "with over 450 square miles and within four square miles of being as large as Los Angeles, has plenty of room in which to grow."

Speaking of actions by smaller cities in the Houston area, the mayor told the council that "this annexation hysteria and jitters can work to the detriment of all in the long run."

"Going hog wild will bring the death warrant to the annexation rights" of cities, he said.

Dairy Support Nears Reality
House Committee Approves Senate Bill for Milk

Washington — Increased price supports for dairy products for the remainder of the marketing season moved one step closer toward reality today when the house agriculture dairy subcommittee approved the senate dairy bill which already has had one try on the senate floor.

The house subcommittee, in adopting the terms of the senate measure, legislatively places the price support of $3.22 per hundred weight on manufactured milk and 50.6 cents per pound on butter as against the original bill sponsored by Rep. Lester Johnson, Black River Falls, of $3.25 and .60 cents.

Current price supports average $3.06 and 56 cents.

Senate Bill
The senate bill, sponsored by more than a score of legislators, including Wisconsin's William Proxmire and Alexander Wiley, came up on the senate floor late last week, under a "unanimous consent agreement," although it failed to be approved that day, it was not defeated. It was "passed over without prejudice." This means it can be brought up again on the senate floor.

Whether the measure will receive approval of the full house agriculture committee, even if passed by the senate itself is a matter of speculation.

Construction of the $300,000 addition to Zwicker Knitting Mills 410-418 N. Richmond street, is under way. Started almost a month ago, about 5 per cent of the work has been done. Completion is expected sometime in October. To be housed in the new addition are expanded production facilities, research and development laboratories and some administrative offices.

U. S. Overemphasizes Sex by Shrouding It, Doctors Claim

San Antonio, Texas—Americans overemphasize sex in marriage by "en-shrouding it in mystery and secrecy," a Washington psychiatrist told the National Catholic Family Life convention Tuesday.

Dr. John R. Cavanagh said it is desirable to discuss sex with engaged couples aspects of the psychology of interpersonal relations rather than give them a diluted version of sex activity with emphasis on its mechanical aspects.

Cavanagh is a member of the advisory board of the National Catholic Welfare conference.

Another doctor, Herbert Ratner, told the convention, "Pre-marital instruction which is limited to the mechanical side of sex fails to take into consideration 'that each couple is different, with different sensibilities and different sensitivities. We have differences, and get to solutions.'"

Fox Cities Lauded For UW Extension

Center Provides Example of Faith In Education, President Says

Hortonville — Residents of the Fox Cities were praised for their support of the Fox Valley Center of the University of Wisconsin Extension which opens next September by Dr. Conrad Elvehjem, president of the University of Wisconsin Wednesday night.

"Through the center you are benefiting generations of young people and through them insuring the progress of this area in years ahead," he said to the third annual rural-urban barbecue crowd at the Hortonville Union High school.

This center and similar developments at other center locations in the state have provided concrete examples of the continuing faith Wisconsin people have in higher education, the president declared.

Hysterical Pitch
"The foresight you people have shown in building for realistic future enrollment expectations is quite a contrast to some attitudes we have encountered," he commented.

Elvehjem explained how an individual in a crowd once told him that "instead of building to take care of the youngsters now on their way to college, we should devise some test to keep them out."

"There is enough of such talk going the rounds in this period, when the campaign against taxes has reached almost an hysterical point, to hamper seriously the university's building program," he said.

Credit Grants
Elvehjem told the nearly 200 rural and urban government and civic organization representatives the university is becoming more inclined to credit progress to the many and increased grants and aids the school receives.

"It is true that, lacking state appropriations for new programs, the university has had to turn to other sources for funds to keep abreast of the leaders in higher education," he said. "But we should never give the impression—and I do not want to leave such an idea with you—that the solid, long-time support by the taxpayers of Wisconsin and the legislature has not been the key factor in the greatness of our university."

Court Justice Doubts Legality Of Rights Group

'Investigations'
Deny Southerners
Cross Examination

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — There is a kind of quiz that appears in some newspapers, in which on one page it is asked: "Who said this?" Then the answer is given on another page.

Who is the author of the following:

"Yet important as these civil rights are, it will not do to sacrifice other civil rights in order to protect them. We live and work under a constitution. The temptations of many men of goodwill is to cut corners, take short cuts, and reach the desired end regardless of the means. Worthy as I think the ends are which the civil rights commission advances in these cases, I think the particular means used are unconstitutional."

Was the foregoing comment expressed by some critic who feels that the desegregation decision of the Supreme court of the United States in 1954 ignored the rights of the states to control their school systems? Was it written by someone who questioned the legality of the "sit-in" demonstrations at the lunch counters in the south?

Dissenting Opinion
The paragraph quoted above comes from the pen of Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme court of the United States this week in a dissenting opinion in which he and Justice Hugo Black announced their differences with the other seven justices.

The issue concerned the refusal of registrars in the south, accused of voting-law violations, to testify before the civil rights commission when they were denied copies of the charges against them and were not permitted to cross-examine those making the charges.

The supreme court's majority held this week that the commission's hearing was just an "investigation" to get the facts, and not to prosecute anybody, so the "due process" safeguards are not necessary, particularly as the testimony could be taken in secret.

Last year the supreme court had a difficult time with the same issue when security clearances in defense plants were involved. The court said then that, unless specifically authorized by the president or congress, a government department cannot deprive a man of his job "in a proceeding in which he was not afforded the safeguards of confrontation and cross-examination."

Seems Unconstitutional
The majority of the court has apparently reversed itself by insisting that hearings of the civil rights commission are simply "investigations" by an executive agency. Justice Douglas doesn't accept this rationalization. He says:

"The procedure seems to me patently unconstitutional whether the hearing is public or secret. Under the commission's rules the accused is deprived of the right to notice of the charges against him and the opportunity of cross-examination . . . and even if the commission were inclined in a particular case to protect the accused from the opprobrium likely to flow from the testimony of individual witnesses against him by holding secret sessions, this would be little comfort after the commission's findings, based on such untested evidence, were publicized across the nation."

Justice Douglas insists that the civil rights commission is not an arm of congress but is an arm of the executive and that the only way the chief executive may move against a person accused of crime and deny him the right of cross-examination is by a grand jury proceeding. He adds that the instant case is "a device to expose people as suspects or criminals," and he says of the supreme court justices: themselves that "personal preference, not reason, seems to be controlling." Here is the most severe criticism that Justice Douglas wrote:

"Free-Wheeling Process"
"Yet one who tries to rationalize the cases on cold logic or reason fails. The answer turns on the personal predilections of the judge; and the louder the denial the more evident it is that emotion rather than reason dictates the answer. This is a serious price to pay for adopting a free-wheeling concept of due process, rather than confining it to the procedures and devices enumerated in the constitution itself."

"We look to the constitution—not to the personal predilections of the judges—to see what is permissible. Since summoning an accused by the government to explain or justify his conduct, that is charged as a crime, may be done only in one way (by grand jury proceedings), I would require a constitutional amendment before it can be done in a different way."

This echoes the demand of many citizens who felt in 1954 that reversal of a long-time precedent by the Supreme court was wrong and that the "law of the land" should be changed after such a long lapse of time only by a constitutional amendment.

Kuehn Gets a Clear Track

The announcement by Jack Olson of Wisconsin Dells that he will not be a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor in the Sept. 13 primary was welcomed by leaders of the Republican party. Claude J. Jasper, chairman of the Republican party, said of the announcement, "now we can plan our primary activities so they will have a direct effect upon the November campaign."

The announcement means that Philip G. Kuehn of Whitefish Bay, endorsed candidate of the Republican party, will have a clear track for the primary and thus will be able to give all of his time and attention to running in the general election without distractions from a primary opponent. In all likelihood the Democratic candidate, Gov. Gaylord Nelson, will have a similar advantage in his party.

However greatly the lack of a primary contest may be cheered by party leaders, and perhaps welcomed by the individual candidates for governor, it is not an un-mixed blessing. The mere fact there is no contest means that a good deal of the fire and drive has gone out of the primary. This will reduce the size of the vote. It will mean that candidates who have opposition in the races for congress, the lesser state offices, or local offices will be severely handicapped by the small vote. We think the ideal situation would be for all candidates to have opposition. It is just as important for the members of a party to have the issues discussed in selecting the party leaders as it is for the people in general to hear discussions in the general election.

A candidate seeking the party nomination should have a good reason for doing so. For example he might very well differ with his opponent as to whether the state should consider the adoption of the sales tax, or whether the reapportionment of the legislature should be based upon area and population or simply upon population. If the candidates took clear stands upon such issues, argued their cases before the people, the winner would be in a much stronger position to carry the fight into the general election than either is likely to be after having gone through the primary without a contest.

The temptation is for candidates to go along as far as possible through the primary without antagonizing any important element of the population. This is possible where there is no opposition but would not be possible if there were important opposition. In most instances both the candidates and the people would be better off because of opposition but in every field, even in those where the value of competition is freely acknowledged, it is not welcomed by many for the easy and the happy way is to go along without competition.

Japanese-U. S. Trade

During all the hullabaloo in Japan the last few weeks, much of it aimed against the United States, we must wonder why our Information Agency has failed to get across to the Japanese people the effects of our liberal trade program with them. Understandably much of the agitation was Communist inspired. But we wonder just why we must hide our lights under barrels when they can be used as a weapon against the Reds.

Our imports from Japan this year probably will exceed a billion dollars, something of a 400 per cent increase in 10 years. This year Japan is selling more to the United States than she is buying. But this unfavorable balance of trade from our point of view, made possible in part by our liberal trade policies and Japan's restricted one, isn't the whole picture.

Our foreign aid has assisted the Japanese in the years since the end of World War II in developing industries which compete directly with our own. Japan is seeking prominence in various industrial fields to augment the high position she now holds in clothing and textiles. Our aid has built up a stainless steel industry in Japan, and anyone who has purchased cameras, binoculars, sewing machines, radios or toys in recent months can understand the inroads these items are making in the United States market.

Textile union workers argue they cannot compete with the Japanese principally because of the difference in wage scales.

The average Japanese clothing worker receives about 14 cents an hour. The American is paid $2 or more. Textile manufacturers point to the double hazard they face in cotton purchases. In order to hold up the price to cotton growers, domestic firms must pay a high, subsidized price. But the United States government sells surplus cotton at the lower world market price to Japan. And the local textile manufacturer must, through his taxes, help make the cotton cheap so that the Japanese may buy it.

Since Under-Sec. of State Dillon protested some of the stringent Japanese restrictions on admitting our goods to Japanese markets they have been relaxed. But the barriers still are high compared to ours. Nevertheless Japan is second only to Canada in purchases from the United States. Certainly if we tightened our own trade policies, theirs would be made more restrictive. There also is agitation in Japan to turn to the former markets in China. Obviously we don't want this although sometimes we must wonder how far we can go in reducing our own gold reserves to keep neutral nations from trading with the enemy.

Studies have shown quite conclusively that our freer trade policies have created more jobs in the United States than they have endangered although this is small comfort to the industries which are hard hit by the competition. But the least we can do about the whole trade situation is to give it some publicity.

The Duty of the Courts

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, stated recently that "the time proven deterrents to crime are sure detection, swift apprehension and proper punishment."

This observation applies as well to traffic law enforcement as it does to major crimes of violence. Many courts are moved by pity. Many law violators are pathetic enough when they get into court. Thus it is hard to remember that leniency toward them may often inflict severe damage upon members of the public.

Recently Judge Miron Love, Houston, Texas, sentenced a legally blind person to 18 months in prison.

No doubt this was a difficult sentence for the judge to pronounce. Just how difficult is suggested by the fact that the same blind person had been in court seven times previously for the same offense and had received leniency on each occasion. The prisoner is a carpenter with only 22 per cent vision in one eye. He is legally blind but was arrested for drunken driving. It was his eighth trip to court on the same charge.

On the occasion of each arrest he had endangered a great many people. The fact that he had not had a serious accident did not relieve the police of the duty of taking him into custody or the court of sentencing him. Imagine the discouragement of the traffic officer required to pick up this man again and again, only to have him released because the judge felt sorry for him. Such misplaced sympathy not only places the public in physical danger but it also tends to lower the tone of the whole system of law enforcement.

What Others are Saying

Deficit Feared, Now Budget Surplus Seen

From Wall Street Journal

Just a few weeks ago the Washington forecasters were fearful there would be no budget surplus, but a slight deficit, for the fiscal year ending about a month hence. Now, closer to the goal-post, they think a surplus will materialize after all — $200 million or better, roughly as predicted in January.

The turnabout is not particularly surprising. An estimated surplus of $200 million is so narrow that almost any vagary can move it either way. So it is in the present case. It looks as though the farm programs will cost a bit less than anticipated; also the carrying charges on the public debt; a few other "savings" are cropping up. It could easily have been the opposite, for these things are not really under the control of congress or the administration.

The plain lesson is that if the government wants to be reasonably sure of a surplus, it must provide for one of considerable size. And even one that looks big at first glance can turn out to be a mirage. For the next fiscal year the administration estimates a $4.2 billion surplus. But as Budget Director Stans has just warned again, in certain circumstances — notably if congress insists on passing some costly measures before it — the government could "end up with a substantial deficit in 1961 even with an extension of present tax rates."

Even an estimated $4 billion surplus, moreover, is not as large as it may seem. It doesn't make nearly a big enough dent in the hundreds of billions of deficits piled up in the past generation. In that period there has been scarcely a year without a deficit. Even as late as fiscal 1959, the government managed to amass $12.5 billion worth of red ink.

Nobody, though, talks about running a $12 billion surplus. In the curious fiscal lexicon of the dominant faction in congress, that would be irresponsible, whereas laying waste to the dollar's value with debt and inflation is respectable and even praiseworthy.

As long as that upside-down view prevails, budget-making will remain an imprecise and uncontrollable enterprise. Our sympathies to Mr. Stans — not to mention all the other people who have to pay for political greed.

Drunken Driver Is Honest Man

Tucson, Ariz.—(AP)—Tucson police said they had to admire the honesty of a man stopped for drunk driving. "How many drinks have you had?" a patrolman asked. "I'm not going to lie," the man said. "I had six bottles of beer and four glasses of vodka."

People's Forum

Neenah Writer Discusses Foundry Dirt, Fumes and Sump Pump Law

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Would you please publish the following article in the People's Forum.

To the Citizens of Neenah: Summer is here again and the "Blue Haze" of the Neenah Foundry covers our children in the park, in our yards, and around our homes. The dirt still collects on our window sills, on the sides of our houses and over anything that is exposed to the outside. Since we asked our health and welfare committee and city council to write a code and stop the dirt and fumes from being spread over our homes and yards, what has been done? Nothing except they have allowed the Neenah Foundry to locate in a new area and to spread the same condition over another large part of the city. Other than this, the report from them is "they are studying the question." After a full year of studying they now think that writing a note to the industry here will keep the voting public in hopes that something might be done. The report also comes from them that the washers on the new foundry are not working as yet and things will get better. If the washers work as good as they do on the old foundry, they should not even bother to start them.

Without an air pollution ordinance what can we expect. The least expense is maintained by the foundry when they blow their dirt and fumes onto our property and they will do nothing until a code states they must.

How does our council face other problems? They are now studying an ordinance that will require each of us with other homes to spend about $200 for a sump to separate storm water from sanitary and if passed, we will be given 3 or 6 months to get the work completed even though we built these houses and drains to meet all existing codes. If we cannot comply, we will face a possible $25 per day fine.

They seem to be facing this problem but then, we are only citizens, not industry.

In reading "Air Engineering" magazine, March 1960, the editorial is "Smog Causes Cancer." One part of the article is as follows: "The conclusion is inescapable. Dr. Eastcott avers.

Lung cancer is a product of total environment in which polluted air plays a major role. Atmosphere pollution operates directly. It infuses carcinogenic (cancer-causing) substances which are taken up by lung tissue. And it operates indirectly by increasing the incidence of bronchitis which is a precursor of cancerous changes in the lungs." I suggest the health and welfare committee read the complete article.

I wish one question could be answered for me. Why is it that if one of us burns anything that gives off an odor or dirt, our neighbor can call the police and said person will be fined because he has caused a nuisance to his neighbor, yet here is an industry which causes fumes, odors and dirt that bother half the town, making outdoor living impossible at times, and when reported, we are told, "Nothing can be done" by our police department.

We all know the problem.

Its just about time our city council does something. Other cities have succeeded. When is our health and welfare committee coming to life? Each of us has the right to ask this question and each of us should expect an answer. Why is it that our council is so afraid of this problem?

Various Answers To Jail Quiz

Chicago —(AP)—Prisoners in the Cook county jail answered a quiz by the jail's newspaper on what three things they hoped for most out of life.

Some answers: "A wife, a home and happiness — because those are the three essentials of life." "Money, a good foundation under me, and a good girl — because that is what

Women's Rights Law Passed

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of June 23, 1860.

The New York Legislature has just passed an act relating to the rights of married women, of which the following is an epitome:

1. The wife may, without the assent of her husband, embark in and conduct any business on her own account, devoting to it all her time, and resorting to all those means, association and appliances which are essential to procure and increase that business; and her husband has no control over her time or pursuits than if she were a single woman.

2. The estate of tenant by courtesy is abolished.

3. The husband no longer is the exclusive guardian of his children or entitled to appoint a guardian by his will.

4. The debts of the husband subsisting at the time of his death no longer constitute a lien upon his real property or any property, nor can any such property be sold for the payment of his debts during the minority of his youngest surviving child.

5. The contract of marriage no longer creates a legal obligation — it imposes merely a moral or honorary obligation, leaving the parties free to separate at their pleasure.

There is much dispute among the papers of New York State upon the law and its practical workings are looked for with much anxiety.

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, June 20, 1935

The senate finance committee refused to add any of President Roosevelt's wealth tax proposals in approving the house resolution extending $500,000,000 of nuisance and excise levies expiring June 30.

French officials said privately that France intended to meet Germany's naval challenge by strengthening France's fleet "as much as necessary."

Walter M. Singler, president of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool, Harry Jack, Charles Sievert, Alton Due and Ray Retzlaff were named delegates from the Outagamie county unit of the pool to the state convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor in Appleton.

Robert Kunitz, Appleton, was to be the director of the summer recreation program to be conducted in Appleton as an EEP and FERA project.

Samuel N. Pickard, Adolph A. Hennig and Elmer Schultheis of Neenah attended the annual convention of the Wisconsin Bankers association at Lawsonia, on Green Lake.

Distribution May be Biggest Tax Problem

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — It is thus far only a speck on the political horizon, but there is a possibility that the tax revision target toward which the state has been moving haltingly, and grudgingly and timidly may yet be missed through extraneous considerations.

As time goes on and the so-called "blue ribbon" commission's reporting date nears, there are significant repetitions of statements by state administration spokesmen about the essentiality of considering existing tax distribution in any proposal for reforming the state tax system as a whole.

Gov. Nelson has spoken of it repeatedly. More recently one of his assistants, in a persuasive address at the industrial development conference a month ago, put it more explicitly. No tax revision without a new tax distribution formula, he said in effect.

THE HAZARD

The danger in this talk is that it sounds more plausible, and simple and logical than it actually is.

Tax distribution sounds simple enough. But in actuality it contains some of the most perilous booby traps in state politics.

It can be written almost as a certainty that the commission's report for new directions in tax policy — if it actually contains such recommendations — will be consigned to the wastebasket after a long siege of futile legislative struggle if it contains as essential features a redistribution of present local income tax shares, the per capita payments of the liquor tax, the return of utility taxes and the others now listed under the state system of shared taxes.

Each of these propositions it will take for me to survive through my life."

"Freedom, forgiveness from all my loved ones and all those I have hurt in the past, and the strength to live a Christian life after I am free, as I have learned here through the help of Christ."

"Get out of jail, get back to my kids and be a great Casanova."

has been attempted repeatedly before. The legislative journals are replete with proof that they cannot be achieved. Indeed, the problems of tax distribution, such as they are, remain today not because they were discovered by the Nelson administration yesterday or the day before yesterday, but because past governors and past legislatures, even when they tried, found it utterly impossible to dislodge the vested interests involved.

Anybody who has any connection with municipal government in a city or a suburb will grasp immediately what would happen if the legislature seriously proposed that some of its income tax shares be paid out elsewhere. The locations of utility properties in this state, through happenstance, have made it inevitable that there is a powerful lobby insisting upon the status quo of utility tax distribution, theoretical or equitable objections notwithstanding.

INSEPARABLE?

Nor is everyone acquainted with this subject convinced that the issues of state tax revision and local tax distribution are indivisible.

Perhaps ideally they ought to be joined. But separating them is not necessarily fatal.

Tax revision, as a phrase, is a cautious circumlocution for the idea of incorporating a sales tax in some form into the general revenue scheme of the state, to stabilize income tax levies on individuals and corporations, and to stabilize and reduce if possible the burdens of the property tax.

The revenues from such an innovation in the tax structure could be used to equalize tax burdens, perhaps not as much as with a total redistribution of taxes, old and new, but nevertheless substantially. The school aid formula is the most obvious example. It is so written as to give primary weight to two factors—showing need: local tax rates, and local school populations. The use of that comparatively simple formula would assure property tax relief where it is needed.

The academic reformer may insist upon more. But he may also be covering up for the timid politicians who don't want tax revision and who are using fancy concepts and goals as camouflage.

World Buying More Goods From France

From The France Actualite

France in the first quarter of this year earned 61 per cent more from sales of her merchandise to foreign customers than in the corresponding period of 1959, but the value of her total imports rose only 45 per cent. Official figures also show that in the month of March, for the first time since the war, the value of France's exports considerably topped the value of her imports, the net profitable balance being almost $10 million. And this does not include the country's larger net gain from "invisible" exports such as tourism and insurance. In fact, France's trade by April had piled up a $2 billion gold and foreign currency reserve at the treasury. These accomplishments, says the daily France-Soir, are due to competitive French value-for-price products, the government-industry export drive, and the fact that French manufacturers have learned more about selling.

tion between Frey, the FAA office and Stiffel, Frey flew to the airport at New Alexandria, Pa., where the weather was clear. Stiffel was given a compass reading by the FAA then and flew to New Alexandria and landed.

Frey, piloting three members of the Tennessee staff, proceeded to Pittsburgh.

H. G. Hatt, 41, an Evansville, Ind., undertaker, radioed the Chicago Midway airport that he was lost "had less than 15 minutes fuel left and couldn't fly instruments."

Over Lake Michigan in an overcast, Hatt was directed via radio to fly northwest where a break in the clouds might be located. While flying, he talked for some 15 minutes with the airport control room.

Their conversation was overheard by TWA Pilot Don Aageson and his co-pilot, Wes Jacobson. Their plane had just left Midway with 46 passengers and 3 other crew members for New York City and Boston.

The TWA pilots told Midway they would help bring Hatt to the ground.

They broke out of the clouds at 14,000 feet, led Hatt to Morris, Ill., some 50 miles southwest of Chicago, where a hole in the overcast was reported. At Morris, the pilots found the hole had closed.

Their radio now informed them a hole and sunlight visible near Joliet, some 20 miles northeast of Morris.

The two planes then came out of the clouds near Joliet at about 4,500 feet, Aageson later related, and Hatt landed safely with his passenger, Robert Rideout, 42, also of Evansville.

Aageson of Lockport, Ill.,

Treaty Put Into Effect At Secret Ceremony

yesterday that the U. S. senate had ratified the treaty, the president messaged Ambassador MacArthur to insert the dates on the documents.

Arrangements were quickly made for the ambassador and the foreign minister to meet at Fujiyama's home, and not at the foreign ministry as the left-wingers expected. News- men were told of the plans less than an hour before the ceremony.

Residence Guarded

Three police patrol cars and 13 truckloads of police guard-and Jacobson, of Elm Grove, Ill., then returned to Midway, refueled and continued their trip to the east.

ed the residence. There was no sign of leftist demonstra- tors.

Later 300 weary, dispirited leftist students squatted in front of the foreign ministry. Another 1,500 held memorial rites in downtown Hibiya park for Michiko Kamba, 22, a girl student who was killed in a student riot at parliament June 15.

The students were expected to demonstrate later at parliament. Questioned about the day's developments, one of them said:

"We are so shocked we don't know what to say."

Hours after the exchange more than 3,000 pro-commu- nist students snake-danced and picketed around the foreign ministry, police headquarters,

Kishi's residence and the American embassy.

The exchange took only three minutes, beginning at 10:10 a.m. Three documents were signed by MacArthur and Fujiyama; a note covering the new administrative agreement on jurisdiction over American forces in Japan, the security treaty itself and a protocol confirming the exchange.

"This is a significant day in the history of our two nations," MacArthur said at the conclusion of the signing. "The treaty is entirely defensive in character and intent and represents a threat to no country or people."

"I am convinced," said Fujiyama, "the new treaty will place the friendly relations of the two countries on a more durable basis and contribute to peace in the Far East."

Want Ties With U.S.

In a statement issued later, Fujiyama said the "over- whelming majority" of the Japanese people support the treaty and want close ties with the United States.

Kishi did not attend the signing but met meanwhile with his cabinet a few miles away. In a statement announcing his intention to resign, he said a "conspiracy by international communism" had been behind the turmoil of the past month.

"With the coming into effect of this new treaty," he said, "I feel strongly the need of creating a fresh public atmosphere and a change in the political atmosphere in line with the trend inside and outside the country. Thus I have decided to resign."

Regarded as his most logical successor was Hayato Ikeda, the tough, 61-year-old economic expert who carried out the drastic anti-inflationary reforms of the occupation period and is today the most vocal advocate of an expanding national economy.

Also in the running are Bamboku Ono, veteran politician who is vice president of the liberal democratic party, and Mitsujiro Ishii, big, easy-going former commerce minister.

There was also speculation that bitterness among the faction-split government party members could even bring Shigeru Yoshida out of retirement to once again head the government.

A general election to choose a new parliament is expected in the fall. Even most socialists admit there is only slim likelihood of their shaking the conservatives' control in the foreseeable future.

The leftists reacted with a mixture of pleasure over news that Kishi was moving out and anger that the speed and secrecy of the ratification exchange had robbed them of another public demonstration against the treaty.

Sabura Eda, socialist party secretary general, called the exchange of documents "a dictatorial attempt to force on the people a treaty which they opposed."

"We will continue the struggle," he declared.

The only avenues of defiance open to the leftists seemed to be continuation of demonstrations, and continuation of the socialist boycott of parliament. The demonstrations are expensive, and the boycott cannot prevent parliamentary action since the liberal Democrats alone have a quorum.

Replaces 1951 Treaty

The new treaty supersedes a 1951 pact which was of indefinite tenure and would have continued in effect had the new treaty not come into force. The socialists hoped to force a general election and win a mandate from the people to break off all military relations with the United States, adopting instead a policy of neutrality and closer relations with the communists.

The chief Japanese objection to the old treaty was that U. S. employment of forces from Japanese bases in a Far Eastern war might involve Japan in a war not of her making.

In the new treaty the United States agrees to consult ahead of time with the Japanese government before making any changes in its armed forces,

Jury Grants Star $65,700 for Fall

Los Angeles —(A)—Bette Davis alternately smiled and wept as a jury granted her a $65,700 settlement for injuries she sustained three years ago in a fall in a rented home. The actress testified that she opened what she thought was a closet door—and found herself "precipitated into space." She said the defendants, owners of the home and the agency which rented it to her, hadn't informed her that the door led into a cellar. Miss Davis suffered a broken back in the fall. She had sued for $85,000 damages, claiming the injuries cost her a stage role in the Broadway production of "Look Home-ward Angel."

The jury listened to three weapons or bases in Japan and before deploying Japan-based U. S. forces elsewhere in Asia.

Each nation also agrees to defend the other against an armed attack on Japanese territory, but there is no reciprocal Japanese promise to defend U. S. territory.

The United States relinquishes its occupation right to crush internal disorders in Japan. The treaty continues the 1951 provision that American servicemen come under U. S. military jurisdiction while on duty, but under Japanese laws while off duty.

The new pact will remain in force for 10 years and indefinitely afterward until one year after either nation gives notice of intent to end it.

days of testimony and then deliberated for five hours before making the award yesterday.

Insurance Companies To Cut Policy Rates For Shingled Roofs

Madison —(A)—Two firms were authorized by the Wisconsin Insurance department today to initiate a 20 per cent rate cut for policies covering dwellings with wood shingle roofs.

Commissioner Charles Manson said companies filing the reduced rates are the Insurance company of North America and the Farmers Mutual Automobile Insurance company. He said the cut makes rates comparable to those applying to dwellings with other types of roofing material.

Manson said the fire insurance companies generally have been cool to a department request to delete higher rates for dwellings with wood shingle roofs. He said these rates "are not justified."

Sour Cream Touch Makes All the Difference

BY LILLIAN MACKESY

Post-Crescent Food Editor

Remember back when the top of the cream of the milk had to be left out to sour? . . . this sour cream was used for pancakes, waffles and gravies mostly . . . sometimes it was good . . . sometimes it was too sour. Its making was a hit-or-miss sort of process . . . if forgotten too long, a mold developed and it had to be thrown away.

Today's dairy sour cream is quite different . . . it's really not sour in the old-fashioned way at all, but a cultured cream. Fresh, sweet cream that's been pasteurized and homogenized is used . . . the finishing touches come when a culture, known as lactic acid bacteria, is added. The cream is kept under controlled temperatures until the desired acidity is reached.

The end result is a rich, ripened cream with a special taste best described as sweet - sour or tart . . . a delicious product of smooth texture and heavy body that's easy to digest.

The recipes today show how widely this modern dairy or cultured sour cream may be used . . . home-made soured milk or cream is not the same, so is not suggested as a substitute for the commercial product

. . . from breakfast to supper

it's the taste ingredient in a coffee cake . . . a main dish . . . and as a topping for salads, soups or desserts.

Beet Borsch

1 can cream of vegetable soup plus enough milk to make 2 cups
2 cups canned sliced beets
2 tablespoons white vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
2 cups milk, scalding
dairy sour cream
Place soup, milk, beets, vinegar and sugar in a heavy-duty saucepan. Simmer about 10 minutes. Stirring constantly add scalding milk. Serve in earthenware type soup plates for best effect. Top each serving with large scoop of sour cream. Beet Borsch also may be served chilled.

Orange Cream Coffee Cake
3 cups biscuit mix
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup milk
1/3 cup sour cream
1 teaspoon vanilla

Filling
2/3 cup sour cream
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup chopped nuts
grated rind of one orange cinnamon
1 tablespoon butter

Icing
1 cup confectioners' sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons orange juice

Mix together biscuit mix, baking powder and sugar in a bowl. Beat egg with milk, one-third cup sour cream and vanilla. Add to dry ingredients; mix quickly with a fork to blend. Dough will be sticky, so use rubber spatula to form dough into a ball. Drop on well floured board or pastry cloth. Knead lightly about 10 times. Use more flour if necessary.

Cut dough almost in half. Roll out larger portion into an 8-inch circle. Place in a well-buttered 8-inch pie plate. Spread two-thirds cup sour cream on this bottom layer, being careful not to let it spread over edge of dough.

Top cream with brown sugar, nuts and half of orange rind. Sprinkle generously with cinnamon.

Roll out smaller piece of dough into a 5 1/2-inch circle. Cut 1-inch slashes around the edge at 1-inch intervals. Place on top of filling. Dot top layer with butter. Bake in preheated 375-degree oven 30 minutes or until brown.

Top warm bread with icing. The icing is made by combining 375-degree oven 30 minutes or until brown.

serve juices for one-half cup of each for pie filling and about tablespoon of each for topping.

Moisten cornstarch with small amount of combined juices, then add remaining half cups of juices. Cook until clear and thickened. Lower heat and stir in sugar, salt, nutmeg, vanilla, butter and Cheddar cheese. Set aside while lining 9-inch pie plate with pastry.

Arrange pear halves, cut side up with narrow ends toward center of pastry. Arrange pineapple chunks around pear halves. Spread cheese-fruit sauce over fruit. Cut remaining rolled out pastry into strips; make lattice top on pie. Bake 12 minutes in preheated 450-degree oven; then lower heat to 375 degrees and bake 35 minutes longer. During last 10 minutes of baking, brush pie top with egg white to give a golden glaze. Serve with sour cream topping.

The topping is made by combining 1 pint dairy sour cream, 2 tablespoons combined pear, pineapple juice, 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar. When fruit is drained, re-

Orange Cream Coffee Cake should be reserved for lazy mornings, when every last sweet morsel can be savored. It is moist fine-textured and boasts a rich and different filling. Dairy sour cream is the important ingredient here, both in the cake itself and the filling.

Canned Cream of Vegetable soup and sliced beets transform the recipe for Russian Beet Borsch from a slowly simmered delicacy to a quickly prepared one. Some like it hot, some like it cold, but all like it garnished with a dollop of tangy sour cream.

Summer Sun Plays Havoc With Eyes

Exposure to bright sun bleaches "visual purple" in the eye—a pigment in the retina needed for vision in dim light. Persons with this condition in marked form should avoid driving except in daylight hours. Visual reaction is slowed by this condition and can make the driver accident-prone. This effect is often more noticeable immediately after exposure, but may have a "slow fuse" and cause trouble days later.

Designing Woman

BY ELIZABETH HILLYER

Lighting Jewelry From Finland

The great Finnish lighting designer, Paavo Tynell, spent a number of years in this country revolutionizing our pattern of lighting our homes. His was the strong influence which returned fixtures from the limbo they were banished to when we decided that portable lamps should go it alone—his beautiful shapes in glass and pierced brass could not be resisted, the jewelry delicacy of his use of wire and the elegant modern chandelier appeared along with hanging lamps that raised and lowered, and sconces of great originality.

Mr. Tynell now lives again in his homeland where your reporter visited him during the Scandinavian Design Cavalcade last September. On view then in his Helsinki studio were his designs for the lighting collection from which these sketches were made and many more yet to be made. These have just been introduced here but they are made in Finland with characteristically fine Finnish craftsmanship. The wide-spreading close-to-the-ceiling chandelier shoots diamond flashes of light through brass tub-like shapes from which brass wire flowers grow, and the flower shape repeats above the shade of a pulley lamp. Wire also decorates a sconce with opal glass chimneys, and the trio of hanging globes which are framed in jewel colored metal. A novel long, slender stem and curved yoke supports two drop lights of white glass banded in beige and brown. Learn the furniture refinishing tricks that make old pieces new—send for Elizabeth Hillyer's booklet Furniture Refinishing—How To Do It Yourself. Freakish Hands Make Big Swings

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Usually you need about two-thirds of the high cards in a deck to make a game, and about four-fifths to make a slam. Only one side can have this preponderance of power, so when both sides bid eagerly beyond game the distribution is surely freakish.

When the women's world championship was held in Italy a few weeks ago, this hand was dealt in the match between Great Britain and South Africa. The English girls won a good part of their victory by the way they bid the hand.

At one table, Mrs. Fritz Gordon got to six diamonds doubled, as shown in the bidding diagram. She ruffed the second spade, drew trumps, and took the club finesse. When it worked, she was home with a score of 1,540 points for England.

At the other table, England held the East-West cards. Mrs. Rixi Markus got to six spades with the West hand and scored an additional 1,430 points for England. Probably South should have doubled to ask for a heart opening lead, but she was afraid that the heart ruff might be her only trick.

Bid One More
The important point about such hands is that it pays to "buy" them. Become declarer, and let the other side find the right defense. Bid as high as you dare, and if the opponents continue to bid, don't be in a hurry to sell out; bid one more of your own suit, just for luck.

In a surprising number of freakish hands, each side can make a very high contract. In a market of this kind it is far better to buy than to sell.

DAILY QUESTION
As dealer, you hold: S-A-K Q 10 7, H-K Q 10 8 6, D-None, C-K 6 5. What do you say?
Answer: Bid one spade. With two suits of equal length, show the higher suit detail. (Pay no attention to the South African girl's bid of one heart; it helped land her in the soup.)

Cleaning Supplies Can Save Effort

Dr. Knight Speaks To PEO Sisterhood

"Beyond Excellence" was the title of a speech delivered by Dr. Douglas M. Knight Wednesday evening when he addressed the Wisconsin State convention of PEO Sisterhood in Stansbury theater of the music-drama center.

Delegates to "Paper Valley PEO Patterns for 1960" heard the president of Lawrence college issue a challenge to laymen and educators to combine freedom with wisdom. The result could take our democracy beyond excellence, he said.

Dr. Knight, discussing the pursuit of excellence, said "... To excel is to go beyond, to thrust ourselves forth from where we are. But crucial questions remain; do we go beyond in this sense merely to project ourselves into the void?" He delved into education, opportunity, and the exercising of democracy to produce clear thinking, which might solve America's present problems. "Democracy is not just a matter of equal rights for all — it is far more basically a matter of the individual and collective use of equal rights."

Inquiring Mind "As I see it, if we are to give the idea of democratic excellence any stability, it must be precisely through our acceptance of the inquiring mind as opposed to the self-centered, the free mind as opposed to the doctrinaire, the committed mind as opposed to the dogmatic."

Applying his topic to PEO convention aims and PEO-owned Cottey college in Nevada, Mo., Dr. Knight concluded "If the challenge to America in this century is that of using its powers and privileges with some wisdom, then our great ends and purposes are clear even if the means are obscure. We must exemplify wisdom — not just learning, or organization, or mass results, but wisdom in action."

"This, in fact, is the idea that stands beyond excellence — it is tragically lacking in our society, and if we do not stand for it, foster it, embody it, no one will. If we do accept the obligation, I can promise you that our job as a country at least we shall know what our goal is. We shall be free to pursue excellence, because we shall recognize ourselves at last. And this self-recognition at its best is exactly what

Your Problems

Visitor From Abroad, Reader Object to Subjects in Column

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been reading your column for a long time and now I feel I must speak out against it.

In the past three weeks you have printed letters concerning unwed mothers, juvenile delinquency, and sexual relations outside of marriage. You also print letters from people who drink to excess and get into trouble because of their stupidity and lack of self-control.

My sister who lives in Europe is visiting me. She has read your column every day. This is her comment: "Why do American newspapers print this kind of thing? It makes your country look like a land of very ill and low-class people."

I feel you would be doing a patriotic service, Ann, if you would eliminate the trashy problems. We are giving overseas visitors a very bad impression of our people.—Loyal American

Dear Loyal: This column is not a showcase for overseas visitors. It is designed to help people with their problems—people who, for a variety of reasons, feel more comfortable writing to me than going elsewhere.

I don't know what you consider "trashy," but I can guess. If you or your family became involved in an unfortunate situation you would not use the word "trashy," you'd consider it tragic.

I'd be delighted if this space did not have to deal with unwed mothers, adultery, alcoholism and teenage delinquency, but unfortunately, these problems are part of every day living. They are not American problems, they are human problems and people are essentially the same the world over.

If your visiting sister wants to live in a world of make-believe, I suggest you buy her Grimm's Fairy Tales for the trip home.

DEAR ANN: My problem isn't very exciting—it's about neighbors and lawns.

We have a large lot (100 by 200) and our neighbor's lot is about the same size. For the past two years this neighbor has waited until his lawn was knee-deep in dandelions and the seeds blew all over the block. This year he practiced the same fiendish ritual.

He putters in his yard every evening, scratching around with a rake, fertilizing and trying out all his mowers. He has the kind you ride on, the power reel type, plus the old-fashioned push mower. He mows a few strips then quits. Their lawn is so jungle-like

Golf Club Holds Meet

The Women's Good Fellowship Golf league of Reid Municipal Golf course has opened the summer season with two Wednesdays of regular play. Awards are given for low net scores in each of the four flights, low putts, and the day's special event.

Officers for the 1960 term are the Mmes. Richard Mitlestadt, president; Jerome Capitaine, vice president; Clarence Zelle, secretary, and George Fitz, treasurer.

Winners in the low net division on June 8 were the Mmes. Carlton Campshure, A flight; R. A. Gmeiner, B flight; Harold Krueger, C flight, and Donald Haynes, D flight. Mrs. Krueger also had the lowest number of putts on that day. The mystery event award (low score on ninth hole) went to Mrs. Campshure.

When the women golfers competed on Wednesday, winners with low net scores were the Mmes. Campshure, A flight; Bernie Gressler, B flight; Capitaine, C flight, and Haynes, D flight. Mrs. Karl Towles won the mystery event of low strokes on No. 6. Mrs. Richard Resch played with the lowest number of putts.

Mrs. Hanke was appointed publicity chairman for the coming year, to be assisted by Miss Lana Lemke.

An improvement award for a senior member went to Miss Lemke, and Miss Marilyn Jessee was the honored junior member.

Parents To Decide On Curfew

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me how we can get our son's young friends to go home at a reasonable hour? We have a finished basement in our house and our son's friends—boys and girls both—come here often and dance to the hi-fi. I'm delighted to have them come and they are always welcome but they never seem to want to go home. Would it be proper for my husband or myself to go down at a reasonable hour and tell them to go home, or is there a more tactful way to handle this situation?

Answer: Have your son explain to his friends that you insist that everyone has to leave at whatever hour you decide on. Then, if they stay beyond it, you can go down and say, "I'm sorry, but it is our bedtime and you will all have to go home."

Dear Mrs. Post: When acknowledging wedding presents from a married couple, is the note sent to Mrs. alone or to Mr. and Mrs.?

Answer: Either way is considered proper, but usually the note is sent to Mrs. alone and begins, "Dear Mrs. Smith, Thank you and Mr. Smith... etc."

10 Free Delegates

State Democrats Working Toward Kennedy-Humphrey Combination

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — Signs of a boom for Sen. Hubert Humphrey as a vice presidential candidate may unite the Wisconsin Democratic national convention delegation in backing the nomination of Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts for the presidency.

Kennedy and Humphrey split the Wisconsin delegate roster in the April primary election here, Kennedy winning 20 and Humphrey 10. Humphrey subsequently withdrew from the presidential contest, leaving his 10 Wisconsin pledged votes up for grabs. Kennedy is anxiously canvassing the country for additional strength for a steamroller first or second ballot nomination. The 10 Wisconsin Humphrey delegates are also being courted by the agents of Sens. Symington, Johnson and the advocates of the renomination of Adlai Stevenson.

Kennedy-Humphrey Team
Kennedy backers in the Wisconsin Democratic organization say privately that the Humphrey delegates are leaning strongly toward Kennedy and that when the balloting begins at Los Angeles during the week of July 10 a majority of the 10 will join the 20 Wisconsin Kennedy delegates. The idea of Humphrey as a running-mate for Kennedy is being talked up as a means of persuading the Humphrey delegates. Although the Minnesota withdrawal actually makes them free agents, they will be inclined to do what he wants them to do or what they regard as in his interest.

Sam Rizzo of Racine, a labor leader who headed Humphrey's campaign machine here last winter and spring, is actively booming Humphrey for vice president.

Kennedy Nominated
Patrick J. Lucey, Democratic state chairman who has ostensibly been neutral but is actually devoted to the Kennedy cause, is doing what he can for the same objective. "Kennedy is as good as nominated. The leaders of the party here and elsewhere in the midwest should be thinking of a running-mate to give them maximum weight at the convention," he told a reporter. "Who should that be?" he was asked.

"Sen. Humphrey," he replied without hesitation. Whether Humphrey would accept the nomination is not known here. To accept would mean giving up his U.S. senate seat, since he must run for a new term this year.

Made Previous Bid
Four years ago at Chicago, when his senate seat was not at stake, the Minnesota senator actively sought the vice presidential nomination but his candidacy failed to catch on. Wisconsin delegates had a sizeable hand in the nomination of Sen. Estes Kefauver.

Wisconsin politicians reason that Humphrey will be willing to take the advantage of the pre-convention publicity and avoid discouraging the boom. He is engaged in a hard contest against a popular Republican contender in the Minnesota election.

Party insiders report that the pro-Humphrey delegates of the tenth, ninth and third congressional districts are leaning toward Kennedy now, but that those of the second district are more likely to desert into the Stevenson campaign if there is any prospect of a Stevenson nomination at Los Angeles.

Kennedy won the delegates of the six other districts and those of the state at large in the April election.

Painters Win 13-Cent Wage Increase
New Contract Ends 3-Day Work Stoppage
The 46 members of painters local 1000 returned to work this morning after ratification of a contract with four contractors that provides for an hourly wage increase and minor working agreements.

An increase of 8 cents an hour retroactive to June 1 and an additional 5 cents beginning July 5 will bring the hourly base pay to $3.

The painters stopped work Monday morning after four weeks of negotiations proved fruitless. Their 3-year contract expired June 1, and the new agreement is for one year, ending June 1, 1961.

3 Major Projects
Major projects affected were the Conway hotel, the Prange company and the Neenah Police station. Temporary contractors on these jobs had agreed to stop work if no agreement was reached.

The contractors were represented by a committee of the four employers: Norman Vander Heyden, Elmer Kranszsch, William VanderMaazen and Joseph Jochman. Harlow Feavel, president of the painters union, and a 2-man committee represented the painters.

Joseph Conley, Green Bay, a federal mediator sat in on the negotiations. Among the agreements was a provision for four hours of pay if a worker reported to a job without 2-hour notification there was no work.

Washington — Six boosters of Adlai E. Stevenson have picked James Doyle, former Wisconsin state chairman, to head a drive for a third Democratic nomination for president for the former Illinois governor.

The action to name Doyle was taken without the knowledge or consent of Stevenson, who says he isn't a candidate but would not dodge a fight.

The statement was signed by Sens. A. S. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma, and John Carroll of Colorado, former Sen. Herbert H. Lehman of New York, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Mrs. Eugene Meyer, and Thomas K. Finletter.

Request for Chemical Study Money Rejected

Madison — A request by the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture for $48,976 to set up a laboratory to test chemical residue in farm products has been rejected by the state board on government operations.

Donald McDowell, department director, asked for the money Wednesday. He said it was needed to hire additional chemists and enlarge the state testing program. He added that last year's cranberry scare probably will affect this year's sale of berries and that a similar situation could occur with Wisconsin dairy products unless a close watch is kept.

The board in turning down the request, indicated that the department should have made its request to the legislature.

Says Arena Money Spent for Gifts

State Auditor Says Workers Missed Errors

Green Bay — A John Doe hearing on operation of the Veterans Memorial arena today brought out that business methods at the arena allowed county money to be used to buy hams for staff Christmas presents and uniforms for a boys' hockey league.

The testimony came from James Golueke, a state auditor, who compiled the report on the arena. Golueke said he has listed as due from Jocko Braley, arena manager, $243 used for the hockey suits, $72 used for the Christmas hams, and $9 for cigars bought on an arena voucher last November.

Personal Bill
Golueke said that on April 27, the day after he asked about it, Braley sent him a note saying the hams and cigars were his personal bills. The $243 came to the arena in two checks from the Green Bay Bobcats hockey club in payment for pictures, beer, and pop, Golueke said. The February checks listed the purpose of payment on their face.

Golueke said the checks were cashed at the arena. A letter was sent to the Bobcats asking for a $245 donation for the hockey league and explaining that the previous payments were used by mistake, Golueke said.

No Records
The arena had a system of Braley making billings independent of regular procedure for which the arena had no records, Golueke added. The order for 122 pounds of ham and the cigars were on purchase orders for arena concessions.

Golueke agreed with Dist. Atty. Grant that the ham and cigar purchases had slipped by four check-points in arena business systems. These were Harold Basinski, concession manager, an office girl, Braley and the county board arena committee.

Payment to Son
"It was not caught by Braley when he approved the voucher or by the seven members of the committee. There is nothing in the original arena records to indicate they (record keepers) were aware of the personal obligations," Golueke said.

Golueke's testimony also questioned the payment to Richard Braley, the manager's son, as a part-time laborer. Golueke said the son's work records were kept by Braley, in contrast to other part-time workers.

Richard Braley received $183 a month as a salaried skate-room attendant between November of 1958 and Jan. 1, 1960 and $1 an hour thereafter.

Son's Records
Golueke testified that the son was recorded as working an average of five and one-half hours a day during the first four months of this year while maintaining a perfect attendance record at West High school. He was recorded as working five hours on a day when he was out of town for an air force examination, Golueke said.

When questioned, Richard said he "did not work each and every day" and did not work "some Sundays," Golueke said. This conflicted with the work reports which were prepared by Jack Braley, Golueke added.

False Arrest Case Goes to Circuit Jury

Florida Man Files Charge Against Former Associate

A circuit jury this afternoon began reviewing evidence in the trial of an Appleton man charged by his former business associate with signing a criminal complaint against him without probable cause and with malice.

Fred Hasche, 37, of Boynton Beach, Fla., charged the 1958 action of Edwin Schroeder, Appleton, damaged his reputation and caused him loss of income.

On June 5 and again on July 1 of 1958 Schroeder signed 11 complaints charging Hasche with transportation and possession of property without the owner's consent. Schroeder accused Hasche of taking $3,547.20 of their plumbing firm's assets, including eight checks totaling $1,675.50, plumbing equipment worth $1,240.47, tools worth $262.78 and ovens worth $268.75.

Hasche pleaded innocent at his arraignment Sept. 4, 1958, and, on Sept. 11, Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmiede, at a preliminary hearing, dismissed all counts.

Judge's Ruling
Judge Schmiede at the time ruled the relationship between the two men constituted a partnership, giving Hasche the right to deposit the money.

Schroeder contended Hasche was an employee of the firm and could not deposit money given to him in his personal account.

Attorneys for Hasche argued again today that the relationship was, indeed, a partnership and that Schroeder refers to Hasche as an employee only to suit his (Schroeder's) needs.

Schroeder's attorneys argued there was a misappropriation of funds, thus giving him (Schroeder) cause to start the original action against Hasche.

Hasche is asking for actual and punitive damages to recover expenses, loss of income and damage to his reputation.

County GOP to Discuss Precinct Organization

Nixon Proposes Several Changes In Tax Structure

Also Supports Welfare Measures But Wants Much Private Activity

BY E. W. DABRY
Financial Editor, Chicago Sun-Times

Vice President Richard M. Nixon believes that the nation's tax structure can and should be overhauled, without taking dollars away from essential defense programs.

"Whatever we need to spend in the area of national security must be spent. And only when we meet those needs can we move into the tax reform and/or tax reduction area," Nixon told me in an interview.

"However, the proposals I have touched on would not—ture, reduction of income taxes in the higher tax brackets and changing depreciation allowances to help business.

Excise Tax Reform

At the same time, he singled out federal excise taxes on such things as amusements and transportation as another area in the tax structure badly in need of reform.

"Some of the excise taxes are discriminatory," he said. "They discourage productive enterprise and they are simply handovers from the war years.

Fourth and last in series

"It is time we took a look at them and revised those schedules to make the burden fall more equitably on the economy."

"The tax policies, the fiscal policies and the policies in the social field that I would stand for would be designed to increase growth in this country—to increase the rate of growth."

"I favor vigorous enforcement of the anti-trust laws so we can assure that our economy remains competitive," he said.

For the same reason, he said, government has a direct responsibility in labor-management relations.

Government has a responsibility, Nixon said, "to see that no power center becomes so irresponsible and so strong that it can engage in policies which are detrimental to the public interest and which, in effect, impose upon the economy built-in inefficiencies."

The vice president endorsed the great body of public welfare and economic legislation that has been adopted in the past decades. He noted the so-called built-in stabilizers now available to head off recessions and said he would favor further government anti-recession efforts.

Unemployment Aid

He gave one example: "I believe the government has basic responsibilities in the field of unemployment insurance to cushion the business cycle."

"I feel that modifications in the unemployment insurance program are necessary so that it can be an even more effective floor under the drips in the economy, a more effective floor than it is today."

"I don't fall into the pattern of the ultra conservatives in the Republican party and the ultra conservatives in the Democratic party," Nixon said. "This goes for everything from civil rights to my stand on reclamation."

"I think that what sometimes happens is that the ultra conservatives make the mistake of confusing ends and means. They oppose and many times very properly the means that the so-called liberals advocate for solving social problems.

"But, in opposing the means, they plant their feet in cement and give the appearance of opposing the ends as well."

Against Big Spending

Nixon accused the men who may end up running against him in the presidential race of being all-out spenders.

"Where I depart from most of my opponents on the Democratic side, or the presidential candidates on the Democratic side, is that they see times very properly the means that the so-called liberals ad-growth and as a good in itself. I do not."

The vice president reiterated his support of a number of public welfare programs and again took a crack at what he called "the big government group."

"I support the social programs that we presently have. I mentioned unemployment insurance as an example, and social security. I support the administration's health bill. I support the administration's school construction bill."

For Private Activity

"I support the reclamation programs because here again, in my view, where private capital can build the great multi-purpose dams of the west at the lowest cost and the most efficiently, then they should do it.

But there are just many of them that private capital can't build and won't, and I think government action is justified.

"Where I depart from what I call the big government group is where they take an irresponsible attitude toward increasing the spending on these programs and adding new programs without regard to the benefit-cost ratio."

"In other words, I want every dollar the government spends justified by the benefits it produces."

"I want every dollar possible left in the hands of individuals because I consider individual, private activity generally more efficient in producing economic progress." (Copyright, 1960)

Petition Signed To Annex Six Acres to City

A notice of annexation petition has been filed with City Clerk Elden Broehm by owners of 6.06 acres of land at the northwest edge of the city.

Signers of the petition are Joseph Conrad, Frank Blazek and Alfred Foth, who say they want city services.

The land they seek to annex is between Mason and Summit streets extended from the north city limits to about half way to Northland avenue.

Conrad and Blazek each own 1.25 acres and Foth, 3.56 acres. Each of them has a home on his property. The remainder of the land is to be platted and developed.

Scout camp, near Shawano, will be July 4.

The new ranger's home and maintenance center will be open for inspection, and meals will be served at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The camp entrance is on Highway 55, six miles south of the junction of Highways 55 and 64, and north of the Intending Gardner Dam Boyidian reservation.

AND YOU GET BETTER FLAVOR IN NEW WONDER BREAD!

As every thoughtful mother knows, the most important nutrient you can give your growing child is protein.

Because, without protein, there can be no new cells for growth, no new cells to replace worn-out ones.

This wonderful new loaf of Wonder Bread is made for those thoughtful mothers to serve to their growing children to help sturdy, healthy growth because it supplies a blend of triple proteins which are needed daily.

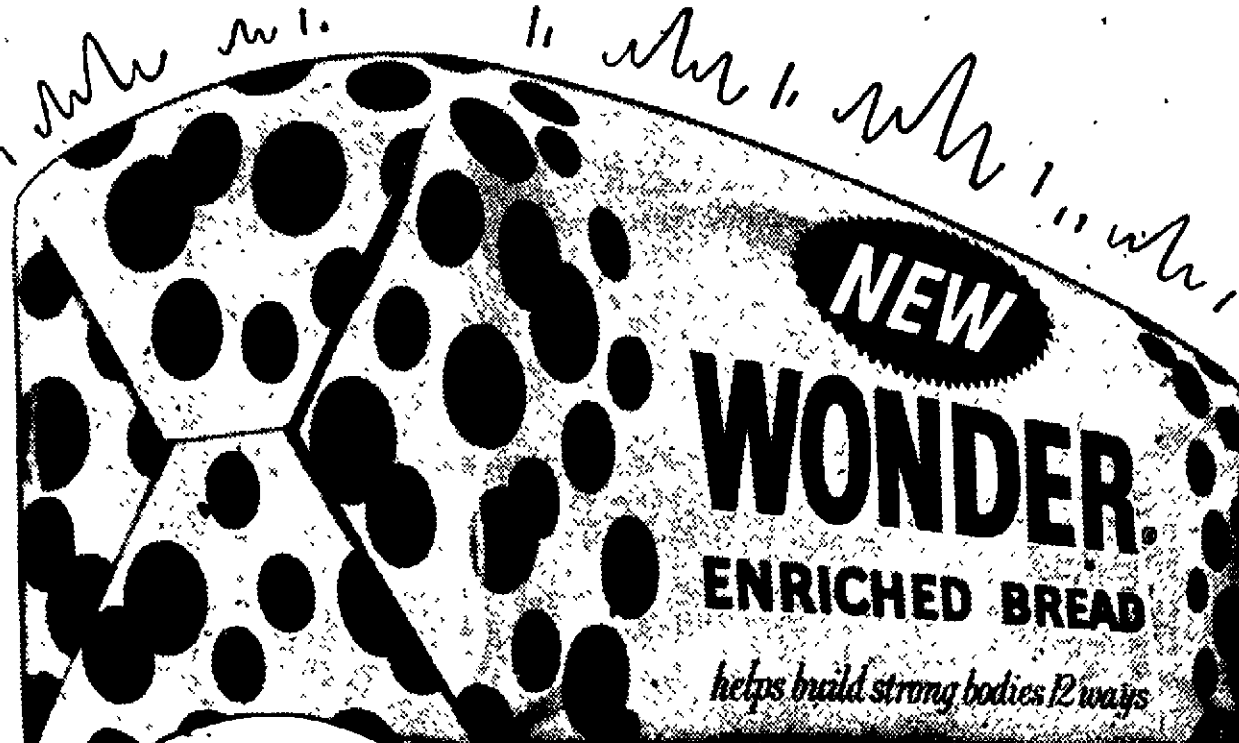

But that's not all. Because New Wonder Bread with "Triple Proteins" has a better flavor.

Out Of This World—Plain Or Toasted And—to make the grayest morning golden bright—pop New Wonder Bread into your toaster.

See for yourself why New Wonder Bread tastes better and toasts better.

Step over to your nearest grocer now and get New Wonder Bread with "Triple Proteins." You'll love it.

TWO LOAVES FREE if you don't agree

If you don't agree that the New Wonder Bread is far better for flavor and toasting than any bread you have ever served, send us the wrapper with your name and address.

We will send you an order on your grocer for two loaves free. We are absolutely sure that no one ever tasted bread so good. This offer good until June 25, 1960. Limit 2 loaves per family.

Here at the Wonder Research Laboratories, the largest and most modern baking laboratories in the world, the formulation for New Wonder Enriched Bread was worked out by leading baking technologists. No other baker offers nutritional research and quality control on such an impressive and continuing scale, and no other baker offers so impressive a guarantee of consistency in the excellence of the product.

FOR TOAST SUPREME—GET NEW WONDER BREAD

You know that toast flavor depends on how well some of the starch in bread is "caramelized" by your toaster.

What you may not know is the flavor "kick" added milk sugar can give to toast flavor.

Try New Wonder Bread and see the difference—you'll be glad you did.

Everybody's eating out and having fun!

Money, and Lack of It, Big Factor in First Half of '60

Midyear Truce in Available Credit And Interest Rates for Individuals

BY SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

New York — Money — or the lack of it — colored much of the thinking both private and public in the first half of the year. Tight or easier, dear or cheaper, flowing into more hands or slipping away in countless new ways, it was money that stole many of the headlines.

It made the news in the stock and bond markets. It is a political as well as a financial issue among the money managers in Washington — the federal reserve board, the U. S. Treasury, the many in Congress who have strong ideas about its role in economic growth.

Money is a factor in home building, small business financing, and in your decision whether it's wiser to save or to spend.

At midyear there is something like a truce. Money isn't as tight, but it isn't really easy either. Individuals find it about as hard to come by, and perhaps a bit harder to hold onto.

More for Financing

Chances for more available credit and lower interest rates look good for the second half of the year. But not much more funds, not much easier terms.

Individuals are being promised plenty of money to finance their installment purchases, and more money that can be borrowed for mortgages. But interest charges on these long term projects are still sticking about as high as in the days of tightest money.

Business isn't demanding so much in loans as in the early days of the recovery from the 1958 recession — hence much of the ease in the short term money market. But banks say they are loaned up in relation to deposits and see no reason to lower interest rates, even if the federal reserve did lower the charge on money it lends to them.

Stocks Seesaw

State and local agencies and corporations seeking long term loans are finding more funds available now, but the interest costs are still high. The federal government is paying less for its short term borrowing, but finding it hard to get takers for its long term bonds.

Stock and bond prices have seenawed as investors compared their yields and tried to judge the chances of further inflation. Stocks enter the second half of the year yielding a bit more than at the first of 1960 because of the late winter shake out of prices, while bonds yield less as their prices have risen.

Pundits predict that stocks will rise in line with individual company prospects. But the market as a whole may lag until the general business trend is clearer. Investors see little fear of further monetary inflation for a while. But they think the money managers would quickly return to tight money if a boom should start in the fall.

Rising State Tax

Dividend totals continue to rise, but the number of companies raising payments seems to be dwindling.

This is because corporate profits, although still up, are being increasingly hit by rising operating costs, and in many cases by reduced sales. Few look for a return this fall to the days of big increases in net income.

The money that flows out of individual and corporate hands into the public purse will go on rising. Federal tax rates will be about the same, but state and local levies continue to creep higher. And the end is not in sight.

And the political battle over whether the country needs easier credit and greater growth, or sound money and stable prices will wax noisier, at least until after the election.

Thursday: Can business activity expand enough to lick the problem of the jobless?

Armstrong-Jones Effigy Battered But Repairable

London — They got Antony Armstrong-Jones out of the Bow Street police station today and took him home — to Tussaud's waxworks.

He was in pretty bad shape. Both of his hands were broken off and there were divots in his waxen head. It will be necessary to re-color his face. He will be unable to make a public appearance until Wednesday or Thursday, said Roy Lane, Tussaud's exhibition manager.

The lifelike, lifesized effigy of Princess Margaret's husband was stolen from the waxworks Friday night. It was found in a telephone booth a mile away at 2:30 a.m. today by a policeman. The dummy was draped helplessly over the telephone and at first, Constable Leonard Edwards thought it was a drunk.

The dummy had a green placard tied around its neck with "welcome home" written on it. Armstrong-Jones and the princess returned from their Caribbean honeymoon on Saturday.

Braves Whip Giants, Run Streak to 5

Continue to Play in Style of '57 and '58 Champions; Burdette Registers Eighth Win of Year

BY DAVE O'HARA
Milwaukee —(P)— The Milwaukee Braves are thinking only in terms of a pennant. And they're playing in the style of their championship clubs of '57 and '58.

The Braves streaked to their fifth straight victory and eighth in the last nine outings Wednesday night by defeating the sagging San Francisco Giants, 7-4, before only in terms of a pennant. And they're playing in the style of their championship clubs of '57 and '58.

Philadelphians —(P)— The second-place Milwaukee Braves, seeking bench insurance for the pennant run, have obtained veteran Alvin Dark from the Philadelphia Phillies in a waiver deal.

The Phillies asked waivers on the 37-year-old infielder Wednesday and the Braves were the only club to claim him. The price was not disclosed.

Dark said he appreciated being sent to the Braves and thinks they can win the National league pennant. He told newsmen he was sorry he didn't do more for the Phillies for whom he hit .242 and batted in 14 runs in 55 games.

In Milwaukee, General Manager John McHale of the Braves said "we wanted Dark because he is a championship ball player who has been on champion club clubs. He is a fellow who can handle a bat and do a job for you in all four infield positions."

'Good Insurance'
Manager Charlie Dressen said Dark "is good insurance for us on the bench. We'll use him as a pinch hitter and he also will be available if anyone gets hurt."

Dark broke into the majors with the old Boston Braves in 1946 as a bonus player. He was traded to the Giants, then to New York, in 1950. Six years later he was sent to the St. Louis Cardinals. The Chicago Cubs picked him up in 1958 and traded him to the Phillies last winter. Dark started this season with a lifetime batting average of .291.

Meanwhile, in a related transaction the Phillies purchased third baseman Joe Morgan, 29, from the Braves' Louisville club of the American association. Terms of the purchase were not disclosed.

Forty-Year-Old White Sox pitcher Early Wynn (right) wasn't too tired for dressing room horseplay with Nelson Fox after pitching a 2-hit victory over Baltimore Wednesday evening. Wynn's 3-1 victory was the 274th of his major league career.

NOTES and NOTIONS

Vern Hoscheit is finding out early in his tenure that being Three-I league president is no snap. He's been on the job barely a month and already a crisis has popped up.

Hoscheit Though Sioux City's attendance, like that of two or three other clubs, has been down, there was no hint of any real trouble until the Tuesday announcement from club owner Adam Pratt. The Soos averaged only 650 fans a game last year—but then they had a second-division club. This year, with the team at or near the top all season, the average is only around 600.

Television Channel 2 cooperated with Green Bay's Dodgers by blacking out the Columbia network's major league game on the afternoon when only 88 persons turned out at Joannes park. Viewers still had two alternatives, however—channel 5 and 11 carried big league games.

Perhaps the most redeeming feature of Monday's explosive heavyweight fight was its complete honesty. Surely, no one would deliberately have gotten himself knocked frigid for as many anxious moments as Ingemar Johansson lay on the deck.

Patterson's title fortunes — as he probably will. Cus unquestionably hurt Patterson's career the first time he won the title. The only fighting was done by Cus with the IBC and other groups, while a young and anxious Patterson grew rusty from inactivity. This time, I hope Floyd gets plenty of work because he could still prove he belongs in the same class with Joe Louis and Rocky Marciano among modern-day heavyweights.

Baltimore was tempted to sign Appleton pitcher Dick Wankey at last weekend's baseball try-outs here but decided it couldn't or wouldn't match the University of Miami's (Fla.) full-ride athletic scholarship. Chief Orioles Midwest Scout Jim Russo advised Wankey to take the scholarship.

Thorsland Stops Demons, Keeps Foxes on Soos' Heels

Chance and Barth Will Hurl Tonight

BY MIKE DREW
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Des Moines' left fielder, Irv Clark, changed from a hero into a goat in less than 15 minutes Wednesday night at Goodland field. Aided by Clark's transformation, the Fox Cities Foxes nipped the Demons, 3-2, in a thriller to remain hot on the heels of first-place Sioux City in the sizzling Three-I league race.

The 3-1 runnersup open a 6-game series in Cedar Rapids with a doubleheader tonight. Right-handers Bert Barth (2-1) and Dean Chance (4-2) get the starting assignments against the third-place Braves.

Clark's single in the top half of the ninth tied Wednesday's contest at 2-2. In the last half of the frame, he let Charley Johnson's single get by him for an error and Ray Youngdahl raced all the way around from first with the winning run.

Thorsland Wins
Arne Thorsland (3-2), who also has tasted the fruits of despair and of success this season, earned the victory on a masterful 5-hitter. The 19-year-old, 6-2 bonus right-hander had failed to last through the first inning his last two times out.

He struck out eight and walked just three and had a 2-hit shutout until two men were out in the eighth. From the fourth to that point, he retired 12 straight batters.

The Foxes' four straight triumphs—all over Des Moines—cooled off the Demons good. Before dropping the series, 4-1, Des Moines had captured 15 of its previous 17 tilts.

The fifth consecutive route.

Bob Friend's Fourth Shutout Tips Cards

8-Hitter Earns 5-0 Success; Phillies Decision Cubs Twice

By The Associated Press
Who's getting the job done for the Pittsburgh Pirates in that National league race? Forget it. The question is "who ain't?"

They have the majors' top winner, Vern Law (11-2); Handyman Elroy Face and comeback guy Bob Friend on the pitching staff. And they have four of the top 10 hitters in the league plus the No. 2 man in RBI, Roberto Clemente, with 49.

Friend scattered eight hits and took the major league lead in shutouts with his fourth in a 5-0 victory over St. Louis Wednesday night.

The Bucs had 11 hits — with Dick Groat (4-for-5) gaining the NL bat lead at .351; Clemente (.328) doubling home two runs, and Bob Skinner (.323) bringing the clincher across with a first-inning single.

It was Pittsburgh's seventh victory in eight games protecting a 3½-game bulge over second place Milwaukee. The come-alive Braves made it five in a row with a 7-4 victory over third place San Francisco's fast-skidding Giants.

Philadelphia defeated the Chicago Cubs, 6-3, after filling away a 7-6 decision in the completion of Tuesday's suspended game. Los Angeles and Cincinnati were rained out.

Friend gave up only one extra-base hit — Daryl Spencer's second-inning double — and didn't walk a man while winning his third in a row for a 9-3 record.

The Cards' Larry Jackson (9-7) lost his second in a row — both 5-0 decisions — after winning eight straight.

The Phils won the regularly scheduled game in a 4-run fifth capped by rookie Tony Curry's 1-on homer. Rookie Tony Gonzalez also homered.

Chris Short, freshman southpaw, let the Chicagoans down with eight scattered hits for his fourth win against two losses.

Johnny Buzhardt (3-4) and the Phils had Tuesday's game won before the curfew sounded after eight frames. The Cubs added a ninth-inning run against Robin Roberts Wednesday night. Joe Schaffernoth (0-2) lost it.

Wynn's Thirteenth 2-Hitter Downs Baltimore, 3 to 1

Yankees Tounce Detroit, 7-3, For Sixth Straight, Pad Lead

By The Associated Press
Whoever started that talk about Early Wynn calling it quits should have started it sooner. That's all it took for the angry righthander to show there's life in the old guy yet, after losing five in a row.

Wynn, last season's pitcher of the year as a 22-game winner for Chicago's American league champion White Sox, bounced back with the 13th 2-hitter of his 20-year career for a 3-1 victory over Baltimore Wednesday night. It was the 40-year-old veteran's 274th victory, tops among active pitchers.

making it two in a row over the second place Orioles, the first place New York Yankees slipped into a 1½ game lead by whipping Detroit 7-3 for their sixth straight victory.

Cleveland beat Washington, 1-0, as Ted Bowsfield gained his first major league shutout with a 5-hitter. Kansas City got past Boston 2-1.

Two Singles
Wynn (3-6) gave up only a first-inning single by leadoff man Marv Breeding and an eighth-inning single by pinch-hitter Clint Courtney.

The White Sox got their three in the third off loser Jack Fisher (5-5).
Gene Freese started the rally with a double, Jim Landis walked, then Wynn sacrificed. Freese scored and Landis went to third on a sacrifice by Luis Aparicio. Nellie Fox singled, scoring Landis. Minnie Minoso doubled, scoring Fox.

Baltimore got its only run in the fourth when Wynn developed a wild streak, walking Gene Stephens, Gene Woodling and Jim Gentile in succession. Gus Triandos hit into a double play, scoring Stephens, but Wynn got Brooks Robinson to fly to Minoso, ending the inning.

When Wynn, who whiffed seven and walked four, struck out Ron Hansen in the eighth, he registered the 2,046th strike out of his career. It surpassed former Brooklyn Dodger pitcher Dazzy Vance's mark of 2,045.

Hadley Hot
The Yankees, winning 13 of their last 14 decisions, stayed not in their old manner—with the help of a guy off the bench. Kent Hadley, subbing for the injured Bill Skowron at first base, blasted his second and third home runs for New York's first three runs off Paul Foytack (1-5), who lost his fifth in a row. Roger Maris, regaining a tie with the Cubs' Ernie Banks for the major league home run lead, then made his twentieth good for two runs off Hank Aguirre in a 4-run eighth.

Right-hander Art Ditmar (6-3) won his fourth in a row, but needed Ryne Duren's relief for the last two outs. Ditmar gave up homers by "Rocky" Colavito and Al Kaline.

The Indians, also held to five hits, beat Bill Fischer (2-3). Bowsfield (3-2), a lefty recently acquired from Boston, gained his first complete game in 10 starts since Sept. 1, 1958.

Ray Herbert (3-6) blanked the Red Sox on four hits for eight innings and ended his losing string at five. A triple by Danny Kravitz and a wild pitch gave the A's a third-inning run off loser Frank Sullivan (3-7). They got the clincher in the sixth.

Adds Two More
Milwaukee added two more in the second as Felix Mantilla singled and went to third on Del Crandall's double to right.

Both runners held as Burdette grounded out. But Mantilla scored on a slow tap to the mound by Bruton. Logan then came through with a safety to center, scoring Crandall.

A single by Burdette, an infield out and Logan's third straight hit provided another run in the fourth.

The Giants nicked Burdette for a run in the seventh on doubles by Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda, but Bruton promptly got the tally back with an inside-the-park homer. Bruton's liner skipped to the right field wall when Willie Kirkland missed a shoe-string catch.

With two out in the eighth, San Francisco scored three times on an infield hit, a pair of doubles and a single. McMahon then came on to get the dangerous Cepeda to foul to third.

Al Spangler, again inserted as a defense measure in the eighth, doubled and scored on Mantilla's single for the seventh Milwaukee run in the Braves' half of the inning.

They'll Do It Every Time

Jack Dempsey, Still 'The Champ' To Millions, Will be 65 Friday

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York.—The grandmother advanced hesitantly toward the table, leading a 10-year-old boy by the hand.

Jack Dempsey gave her a Clark Gable smile, shook hands with the awed youngster, and, asking the boy's name, wrote a personal message on a menu.

And you had a fleeting image of that boy 60 years hence proudly telling his grandchildren how he shook the hand of the great Manassa Mauler, the man who became a legend in his lifetime.

Will be 65
He'll be 65 years old Friday, this man who to millions still is "the champ" although it's 34 long years since the crown rightfully was his and a dozen champions of the heavyweight division have come and gone.

He still looks the part. Straight as a pencil, he appears taller than his 6 feet and 1 inch. A diet ordered by his doctor to reduce high cholesterol, or what he terms "thick blood," has whittled off 30 pounds and left him a svelter 300.

His thick thatch of dark hair still is thick and dark, with only a trace of grey at the temples.

He spends much time now at his Broadway restaurant, where he is besieged by hero worshippers of all ages, from all walks of life.

Dempsey has eased up on his living pace. At 65, he feels it is time to take it a little easier. So there is no more galloping across the country refereeing wrestling matches or fights, although he'd still do it for charity.

"I feel pretty good, pretty good," he said, chewing on one of the long cigars he consumes at the rate of 10 a day.

"Life has been good to me, and I am very grateful. I have five fine grandchildren, all girls—Barbara has three and Jean, the older of my daughters, two. I have business interests, including a radio and television school in Chicago with an enrollment of 2,600 and 20,000 taking correspondence courses."

One of his cherished goals is to see boxing cleaned up and accepted as a good, wholesome sport.

"The small clubs should be brought back, and the rules and regulations be brought up to date," he says emphatically. "They are 40 years behind the times. The sport now is a political football. There is no coordination in its government. The NBA rules have no teeth."

"I believe it should be a felony for a boxer not to show up for a bout without an adequate excuse. He should get two years in jail. And a man convicted of trying to intimidate a fighter should get five years and a $10,000 fine."

Anybody connected with the game should be made to swear he had no underworld connections. And there should be no return-bout clause in contracts, or rather, it should read "if warranted."

NFL to Open Sept. 23 in Los Angeles

Philadelphia.—A Commissioner Pete Rozelle has announced the revamped 13-team National Football league will open the 1960 season Friday night, Sept. 23, with the Los Angeles Rams playing host to the relocated St. Louis Cardinals.

The Dallas Cowboys, the thirteenth team, starts the 1960 season Saturday night, Sept. 24, with the Pittsburgh Steelers in the Cotton bowl, where the Cowboys will play all their home games. The Cardinals will play their home games at Busch stadium.

The league will operate on a "swing" schedule. Dallas will swing between the league's two divisions, playing each team once, six away and six in the Cotton bowl. Each of the other teams will play twice in their own division, one inter-conference game and Dallas for 12 games each.

Rozelle said four other openers will be played Sunday, Sept. 25. The league champion Baltimore Colts will host the Washington Redskins, the Chicago Bears travel to Green Bay, Cleveland goes to Philadelphia and San Francisco plays host to the eastern champion New York Giants.

Philadelphia will be at Dallas Sept. 30 for the only other night game scheduled. Two Saturday afternoon games are slated, and the annual Thanksgiving Day Lions-Packers game at Detroit.

Rozelle said the league championship game will either be Dec. 26 or Jan. 1, in the home of the Eastern champion.

Gurholt Leads Zion Over St. Joseph

Zion boosted its record to 5-1 and took over second place alone in the Appleton Recreation department's Church of Social league Tuesday evening with a 10-6 win over St. Joseph (3-3).

Winner John Gurholt allowed nine hits and pasted a home run. Erv Hooymann was the losing pitcher.

First Methodist (2-4) declined Congregational, 16-11, as Smith whacked two 3-run homers for the victors. Gilbert Miller homered for Congregational (0-6).

Grizzled Mulloy Wins Twice At Wimbledon

Laver Beats Flam, Buchholz Advances In Singles Play.

Wimbledon, Eng.—Believe it or not, some of the best tennis at Wimbledon this year is being served up by a grizzled veteran of 48 named Gardner Mulloy, who hails from Miami, Fla.

Mulloy is one of a quartet of oldsters the Wimbledon fans have come to regard as fixtures. The others are Jean Borotra, the bounding Basque from France; Jaroslav Drobny, 38, the Czech-turned-Briton, and Budge Patty, 36, the American in Paris.

Borotra, whose name first appeared on the Wimbledon roll of champions 36 years ago, is 62 and only plays in the doubles these days. Mulloy, Drobny, champion in 1954, and Patty, winner in 1950, all turned out in the singles this year—and Mulloy is the only one of the four still left to tangle with the serve-and-smash youngsters.

Carry On
Mulloy's ambition is to carry on like Borotra.

"There's something about Wimbledon—I love it," he said. "I'm hoping I shall be in there playing for another 15 years or so."

Mulloy so far has beaten a couple of British youngsters—Tony Packard, 25, and Michael Davis, 24, and today was to meet Don Candy, the hard-hitting Australian.

Mulloy, who first played here in 1947, has twice reached the singles semifinal and in 1957 won the men's doubles title with Patty.

Laver Wins
Third-seeded Rod Laver of Australia easily defeated Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-2, 6-2, 6-2, Wednesday in a second round match.

Dennis Ralston, the U.S. junior champion from Bakersfield, Calif., also bowed out in the second round. Jan Erik Lundquist bet the 17-year-old Californian, 6-4, 6-1, 9-7.

Denmark's Kurt Nielsen beat England's Billy Knight in a strenuous match, 2-6, 6-4, 2-6, 11-9, 6-3.

Earl Buchholz, of St. Louis, one of the leading American contenders, defeated John Cranston of San Marino, Calif., 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

Chile's Luis Ayala, one of the top favorites, trounced Sergio Tacchini of Italy, 6-1, 6-3, 6-3.

Janet Hopps of Seattle rallied from the brink of defeat to defeat Mrs. Suzy Kormoczy of Hungary, 6-3, 3-6, 9-7, in the second round of women's singles.

Eagles Reveal Signing Of Green Bay's Miller And Veteran Joe Robb

Philadelphia.—Joe Robb, a 230-pound end who helped the Philadelphia Eagles tie for second place in the National Football league last season, has signed his 1960 contract, Eagles General Manager Vince McNally announced Wednesday.

McNally also disclosed signing of Ron Miller, an offensive end and placement kicker from Indiana university, Miller, of Green Bay, Wis., played both center and end at Indiana.

Los Angeles Bids for 'Ingo'-Patterson Fight

New York Police Commissioner Replies to Charges That Protection Was Inadequate

New York.—While Floyd Patterson basks in his newfound glory and Ingemar Johansson vacations in Florida, the battle continues over the site of their third fight.

Los Angeles weighed in Wednesday with a wire to Bill Fugazy, a director of Feature Sports, Inc., offering the huge Memorial coliseum and full cooperation.

Fugazy, who wants to run the fight in late September or early October, replied to the Los Angeles proposition and sent similar wires to Chicago and Dallas. He said he was interested in further discussions if assured of adequate police protection for the fight.

The police protection item may result in the third Patterson-Johansson heavyweight title fight moving out of New York.

Stephen Kennedy, New York police commissioner, replied to Fugazy's criticism of inadequate police protection for the Monday night fight and said the police will not be used as "bouncers, ticket takers or ushers to assist fight promoters who chisel on expenses."

Cost of $25,000
Fugazy claimed he had 635 gatemen, ticket takers, watchers, ushers, supervisors and special policemen working at the Polo grounds at a cost of $25,000. He claimed between 15,000 and 20,000 crashed the gate and estimated the actual crowd at about 55,000 instead of the official 31,897 announced by the New York State Athletic commission.

The crowd swarmed into the ringside working press section after the fifth round knockout victory by Patterson.

All the talk about a third fight could be academic. The tax situation might make it impossible. Depending on the income of the two fighters from Monday's bout, estimated by the theater TV people at between $800,000 and $900,000, they would be fighting for practically nothing but the tax people if they went again this year.

Aeronautics Board Wants Feeder Lines

Agency Spokesmen Say Small Budget Starves Air Program

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — A vast network of inter-city airways within Wisconsin was described Tuesday by a state department of aeronautics official as the most effective contribution to the cause of business expansion and industrial development.

A demand for a state-sponsored campaign for the development of a maze of feeder airline services was made public by Edwin Larkin, Eau Claire, prominent Democratic politician named to the state board of aeronautics a year ago by Gov. Gaylord Nelson.

Larkin and other spokesmen for the agency appeared before the state board of governmental operations to complain about the limitations of the state agency budget. As they described it, their program is being starved. Two airplanes have been grounded for lack of money for repairs. A shortage of engineering services led to the loss of nearly $800,000 in federal airport aid funds this year because applications could not be processed in time, they said.

North Central
North Central Airlines now serve about a dozen Wisconsin communities on scheduled flights. But as Larkin described it, the state should have far more feeder line service, either through the extension of North Central's certificates, or through the licensing of new lines. He said the state air agency wants money to survey the state's air transport needs and to make appeals to the federal civil aeronautics board for more certificates.

Thomas K. Jordan, executive director of the state agency, told the legislative group that the state wants to continue to plug for a Madison to Green Bay air route, an improvement of service at Eau Claire, and more flights out of Milwaukee, as specific and immediate Wisconsin air service needs.

Larkin said the state is suffering from deteriorating railroad passenger service, and said there are thousands of businessmen driving cars around Wisconsin who would prefer to fly if service was offered. He mentioned his own frequent 200 mile trips to the capital city on business.

Larkin, a member of Gov. Nelson's "blue ribbon" tax study commission, said he has been attempting to nail down the relation of taxes to business development and has found it difficult. He has been convinced, however, that better transportation service would be a solid encouragement to Wisconsin business and industrial growth, he said.

Signals From Pioneer V Expected to be Lost

Washington — In a week, the earth may lose radio contact with Pioneer V, now orbiting around the sun more than 20 million miles away.

The giant radio telescope in Jodrell bank, England, shot a signal yesterday at Pioneer V. The five watt radio in the 26-inch space probe responded instantly.

A radio signal came back to earth, lasting two or three minutes. Listeners called it "beautifully clear." At Jodrell bank, a spokesman said that Pioneer V's batteries were deteriorating, and the giant radio telescope will probably be unable to track it any longer than another week.

By that time, Pioneer V will be 23 million miles from earth. Its designers had not expected the space probe to send signals from more than 20 million miles out. It was launched in March.

The Largest Crew of air force recruits ever dispatched by the Appleton recruiting office picked up their train tickets for Lackland Air Force base, Texas, last week. A total of 18 enlisted under the buddy system. Eleven of them, from left, are John VanGroll, Appleton; Ray Kohler, Menasha; Robert Beschta and Dale Chandler, both of Appleton; Robert Wendt, Menasha; James Jansen and Richard Kloes, both of Appleton; Harold Gast, Kaukauna; Larry Simmering and John Galassie, both of Menasha; and Jerry Woodke, Seymour. At right is Sgt. Herbert Etten, Appleton recruiter.

State Benefits for Vets Continue After July 25

Termination of benefits under the GI bill on July 25 for veterans of World War II will not affect housing and rehabilitation loans of the state veterans program, according to Francis Heesakker, Outagamie county veterans service officer.

Heesakker said many inquiries have been received which indicate people believe state loans also are affected, but they are not, he emphasized.

Veterans can borrow up to $3,500 on houses costing not more than $15,000 on second mortgages in cases where private financing cannot be arranged. Rehabilitation loans up to $1,000 are available under a variety of circumstances.

Money for housing loans is temporarily exhausted, but more will be available next month when the county receives another allotment, Heesakker said.

Drowns After Turtle Pulls Him Into Creek

Coeymans, N. Y. — A turtle hooked Tuesday by a fisherman pulled the man into a creek, where he drowned.

Herbert A. Beall, son of Mrs. Muriel Beall, 1254 W. Wisconsin avenue, has received a $375 Richard Fischer scholarship at the University of Wisconsin, where he will begin his senior year in September.

The late Prof. Fischer left money to the university for the chemistry scholarships.

Stanfield, told state police he had run off to find something to help pull Gladney's turtle up the embankment from which they were fishing near here. Stanfield heard Gladney yell for help. When Stanfield reached the embankment again, Gladney had disappeared into 16 feet of water.

Gladney could not swim. Police recovered the body.

Talk Back Device Developed for TV

Miami Beach, Fla. — A small device that lets television viewers talk back was demonstrated Monday night at the National Community Television association convention.

The device is the nerve center of a system called "Key TV" by its developer, TelePrompter corporation. H. J. Schaffly, Jr., vice president of the firm, said the device would make it possible for viewers to take educational television course examinations and participate in opinion polls and, eventually, buy products shown on television.

Algerian French, Moslems Look at Problem Differently

This is My Country' Says French Settler

Chébil, Algeria — Around the balcony of the second floor nursery, barbed wire climbs like withered vine.

"One day it will be vine," says French settler Jean Bernard. But that day seems in the distant future. The reality is steel shutters on every window, projectors to detect attacking nationalist guerrillas, and the fierce will to survive.

Bernard, 33, and his pretty blond wife, Jacqueline, have lived three years in a home

Neither the French or Moslem settlers look forward to an immediate end to the Algerian rebellion, which after five years continues in death and despair. Andrew Borowiec, Associated Press staff writer, in companion articles on this page tells the opinions of both on why the fight has been prolonged so long and how it could be ended.

they built not far from their old farmhouse. The foundations were laid just before the nationalist revolt swept Algeria.

Two of their neighbors were shot dead by guerrillas. Several others have moved out. Bernard built a road through his 250-acre farm and planted more orange trees.

"No Reason to Flee" "This is my country," he says. "I have no reason to flee. I have done no harm to anybody."

So far Bernard has had no reason to light the red alert flare kept in readiness under a chimney, nor to use the three shotguns and four pistols which constitute his household's defense.

At night, small groups of rebels criss-cross the fertile Mitidja plain around Bernard's farm. Sometimes they attack individual houses or machine gun automobiles.

"I was told the rebels asked my Moslem workers about me several times," says Bernard. "I guess they have nothing to reproach me. But one never knows."

Bernard and one million other French settlers in Algeria face the same problem: How to build their future in a Moslem country which until now they have dominated politically and economically.

Some settlers — so far amply — believe their period of domination is over, and are beginning to look for ways to adjust their lives.

Some were prompted to reassess their plans after the failure of the January rising against President Charles de Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria.

Refuse Compromise Many others, however, refuse to see the change or admit a compromise. The slogan "Algeria Must Be French" continues to be their motto.

Bernard belongs to those who believe that his place is in Algeria, regardless of its political status.

He was born on his father's farm 20 miles west of here. His great-grandfather settled there after the French conquest of Algeria in 1830.

"I am sure that with enough good will on both sides the Algerian problem could be settled," he says. "You see, I was brought up on a farm, with Arab boys. People in the cities don't know the Arabs. They live in Algeria but have less contact with them than the Parisians. I work with Arabs every day. I feel I understand them. They are not unreasonable."

He believes that French settlers are essential to Algeria's economy and should draw their strength from it.

French Needed, He Says

"No Moslem government in Algeria could do without us," he says. "It will take generations before the Moslems can run the farms, the trade and industry efficiently. I am sure the nationalists know it. There must be a way of getting together and working something out."

Bernard is trying to close the breach between Moslems and Europeans by helping the 14 Moslem families employed on his farm.

Twelve of them live in simple, clean brick houses Bernard built for them. Two are still in smelly, dark mud-and-stone "gourbis" awaiting the end of construction on new homes.

Bernard admits that not many French farmers in Algeria have the means to do as he has done.

Judges Disputes "The Moslems always come to me with their problems, they ask me to be the judge in family disputes," says Bernard.

"Some of them say 'if you leave Algeria, we will follow you.' I don't know if they mean it but anyway it's good to hear it."

Madame Bernard, a striking blonde who looks more like a fashion model than a farmer's wife, has three chil-

Moslem Says People Driven To Extremism

Algeria — For Mohamed Driss, the Algerian problem is a constant and unrewarding search for dignity, recognition and a place in society.

He says the futility of his effort has driven him and thousands of other educated Moslems to dream of a day when they alone could shape Algeria's future.

"Love and fraternity between the French and Moslems consists of slogans and posters on the walls," Driss says bitterly. "As long as the deeds are missing, Algeria will remain in agony."

After a minute, he adds:

"Anyway, I think it is already too late. Five years of war have embedded deeply in my people the idea of nationalism and of a political solution to our problems. By now we have developed a craving to run our own affairs without the paternalism of the French."

Works for French Driss is a senior clerk in the French administration of Algeria. The name is fictitious. Like most Algerians who talk to foreigners, he asked to remain anonymous and not to have his picture taken.

Driss is a member of the French-educated Moslem bourgeoisie. He is a practicien of her own—and several dozen others to care for. Wives of her husband's workers come to her for help and advice.

"I was a pharmacist before marriage," she says. "I find it is very useful here."

First Horrified

"At first I was horrified when my husband brought me here," she recalled. "But then I saw that it wasn't so bad. True, one never knows what the night will bring. But so far the rebels have not bothered us. The Moslems around here seem to like us. Many of them are like children and have to be helped. I have a feeling they want us to stay here."

Outside, near the village of Ben Chenouf, a toothless Moslem woman ran after Bernard, shouting in Arabic. He answered in Arabic and shook her hand.

"The wife of one of my workers," he explains, "asked about the health of my children."

After a moment of silence, he adds:

"All of this we are doing here may seem like paternalism. It probably is. But show me another way and I'll be glad to try it."

ing Moslem but has adopted many ways of the French. His beautiful, black-eyed wife does not wear a veil.

For Driss and thousands of other westernized Moslems of Algeria, life seems a constant vacuum.

"The French have given some of us the benefit of their education and their civilization," says Driss. "And then they show no interest in us, no friendship toward us. There is only one Frenchman whom I can call a friend. Others are polite but don't want to be seen with me or have me in their homes."

Echoed By

Driss' statement is echoed by many Frenchmen here who worry about the future of French-Moslem relations in Algeria. Despite 130 years of French presence, there are no bonds and virtually no social contact between the two groups.

Driss admits that there are French settlers in Algeria who help Moslems.

"But that's paternalism," shouts Madame Driss, her eyes afire. "We can do without it. Our civilization is older. The misfortune of history has made most of our people half-starved, primitive peasants. They have to be helped. But every time a Frenchman does something good for our people he does it with superiority and conceit which hurt our pride."

The Drisses do not advocate

Algeria's complete and unconditional independence. Like most Moslem bourgeois, they are too attached to the French civilization. They are fearful of the economic problems which they believe would follow Algeria's independence.

Home Rule With Ties They describe both the Moslem nationalist rebels and Frenchmen demanding Algeria's integration with France as "extremists."

For Driss, the ideal solution for Algeria is an extensive home rule — with a Moslem government — and economic and cultural ties to France.

He does not believe in a military solution to the Algerian war. Despite his criticism of a number of rebel leaders, he believes the rebels represent an important percentage of Algeria's population and should be consulted about the country's future.

He says he has taken no part in any nationalist activity.

Driss is convinced that the French economic effort in Algeria, the proclamation of equal rights for Moslems and social improvements, have been prompted by the rebellion. He says most Moslems share this opinion — and this is one of the factors which drives them closer toward the nationalists.

Homes for Aged Grew Rapidly in Past Decade

State, Federal Assistance Did Not Cut Need for City, County Programs

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The number of persons in city and county homes for the aged and infirm is gradually expanding.

More counties are providing more space for aged persons as their number increases in a general population rise.

Thirty-seven counties and two cities now operate such facilities. Five of the county homes are new. Other counties are planning to add space or to rebuild old homes, the state division of public assistance reports.

54 Per Cent Rise There are now about 4,500 persons in the homes, representing an increase of about 54 per cent during the last decade.

The division said the growth rate is solid evidence of the increasing importance of such institutions, which once were thought to be doomed because of the adoption of old age assistance and federal social security programs.

Moreover, the ratio of patients in the homes requiring extensive care continues to increase, at a rate more rapid than the population gain as a whole.

The ratio reached its highest point last year, when more than two thirds were either bedfast, chairfast, or needed care although they were able to move about.

Trend Continues

"This situation is influenced both by the growing number of disabled aged and the increasing ability of institutions to care for larger numbers of very seriously ill people."

The trend may be expected to continue as the number of aged and the number of new, well-equipped institutions increases," said the state agency which is charged with supervising the local institutions.

The state department of health regulates the operations of private homes for the aged and infirm, which have also been growing fast.

Rate of Return No Factor in School Success

Oregon Institution
Official Analyzes
Correction Program

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The fact that many of the young girls paroled from the Wisconsin School for Girls at Oregon are returned to the correctional institution does not show the failure of its rehabilitation program, the institution management has told the state board of public welfare.

The program of the costly institution cannot be judged by the rate of return or the number of "recidivists," the institution said.

Rate of Return
"In most cases, returning a girl must be regarded as a necessary step in the overall treatment program," the officials were told. "Students must sometimes experience additional failures before they can participate in and accept placement in other than their own homes," it was added. Sometimes institutions with a low return rate actually show a lack of proper after-care services, according to Thomas Tunney, superintendent.

Returns to the institution are comparatively high. Last year it received 153 new girls and released 119. During the same year there were 66 returns. In some years the rate of return has been higher.

Tunney repeated some of the requests for budget expansion he has filed in the past, including a proposal for a new receiving and segregation building, and additions to staff.

Responsibility for Diplomatic Disasters Is State Department's

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

New York — Recently our country has encountered three major international setbacks:

1. Cuba;
2. The Paris summit conference;
3. President Eisenhower's visit to Japan.

The state department is the agency of our government responsible for formulating foreign policy, for evaluating data; for knowing in advance what events are likely to transpire. The most important men in this mechanism are the deskmen, usually junior officials who are specialists in particular areas or matters and whose reports and memoranda eventually reach those who finalize policy. The state department must answer to congress and to the American people for whatever incompetencies led to the disasters associated with the events. If the men at the top are badly informed, it is the deskmen who passed on incorrect data. The alibi usually is that a man used his best judgment. If his judgment is no good, he should not hold that job.

Communism in Cuba

First, the Cuban disaster. Our ambassador to Cuba at the time that Fidel Castro seized power by revolutionary means was Earl E. T. Smith. When he was appointed to this office, he was briefed as to state department policy by officials of the department and Herbert L. Matthews of "The New York Times" who has had the reputation of favoring revolutionary groups in Spain and in Latin America. Smith, who is a knowledgeable person, reported back to the state department on the communistic characteristics of the Castro movement. His reports were ignored. Smith was retired because he was opposed to the extensive support given to Castro by the state department which was principally responsible for putting Castro in power. The personnel of the state department responsible for the America policy in Cuba were Matthews of "The New York Times" who has had the reputation of favoring revolutionary groups in Spain and in Latin America. Smith, who is a knowledgeable person, reported back to the state department on the communistic characteristics of the Castro movement. His reports were ignored. Smith was retired because he was opposed to the extensive support given to Castro by the state department which was principally responsible for putting Castro in power. The personnel of the state department responsible for the America policy in Cuba were Ray E. Rubottom, Jr., assistant secretary for inter-American affairs, and William A. Wisland, director, office of Caribbean and Mexican affairs.

Second, the Paris summit conference. It is not hindsight to say that there was ample information available to indicate that Khrushchev would have to find a way out of that meeting.

In fact various broadcasts from Moscow foretold failure. Nobody could have foretold that Khrushchev would have attacked Eisenhower with such brutality of language and manner but there was ample evidence in Russian, Red Chinese and other satellite literature to indicate the course of Russian action. In charge of the desks in the state department dealing with the summit conference and the president's trip to Russia were Hugh S. Cumming, Jr., director of intelligence and research, T. Achilles Polyzoides, director of current intelligence indications, Charles E. Bohlen was adviser on Russian affairs, Edwin M. J. Kretzmann, deputy assistant secretary for domestic affairs.

Storm in Far East
Third, the Eisenhower visit to Japan. I do not know enough about the current handling of the data from red China and Japan. Years ago, the far eastern division in the state department was one of the most competently organized and staffed. The men were all trained, able and with a wide far eastern experience.

It is impossible to believe that so great a storm could have been brewed in the far east without some advance knowledge on the part of the state department. What was done about it? What counter-measures were taken?

Faith in the efficiency and knowledge of the state department is again disappearing in this country. When John Foster Dulles was secretary of state, he restored the good name of that department of government. With the passing of Dulles, personnel and policy of the department seem to have become very weak and both will be a campaign issue. Secretary of State Christian Herter has no war to hide behind. If his organization needs new personnel, he should find it; if it cannot formulate policy, he should resign.

When there is a failure, the responsibility for the failure must be fixed. As long as men

City Studying Intersection On Highway 41

Margaret Street May Be Widened, Pending Findings of State

Kaukauna — The city engineer has been instructed to contact the state highway commission relative to whether Margaret street, emerging onto Highway 41, should be widened as a safety measure.

Margaret street north of the highway is not a through street and a barricade has been erected over part of the street to slow residential traffic approaching the highway. The present road where it intersects with Highway 41 is about 20-feet wide.

A resident in the area felt the road intersection should be widened as a safety measure and the board of public works investigated and was unable to determine whether the present system or a widening system would be in the best interest of safety.

Highway Curves

Highway 41 curves around the Margaret street intersection and visibility to the west is limited by the curve. Traffic flows swiftly around the banked curve, making it dangerous for persons planning to turn left at the intersection. Those turning right have a relatively clear view down the highway although most traffic must turn left to reach a connecting street to the main part of the city.

If the intersection roadway is made full width, a culvert pipe underneath the roadway will be extended and part of Margaret street will be straightened.

The removal of the barricade and repairing of the intersection will make the roadway about 30-feet wide. The city has had no great number of accidents at the intersection, indicating to some aldermen the barricade is satisfactorily serving the safety purpose.

Policemen of The Fox Cities

(This is another in a series of stories on Fox Cities area policemen.)

Lt. John V. Gosch, 41, of 800 E. Byrd street, joined the Appleton force June 8, 1942, and heads the traffic bureau. He was promoted to sergeant in 1958, lieutenant the next year. He is married and has three daughters.

Gosch graduated from Berlin High school and is a veteran of three years in the air force military police. His hobbies include fishing and automobiles.

Employees Vote Against Union At Marion

Marion—Employees of the Marion Plywood and Veneer plant voiced one-sided disapproval to organizing a union at the plant in a National Labor Relations board election Wednesday.

The vote was 52 against organizing, six for the International Woodworkers of America-CIO, and three for the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners-AFL.

The plant is owned and operated by Emory S. Rogers and sons, James and Thomas. Rogers said the plant, founded by his father, the late Peter Rogers, in 1894, has never had a union.

In an NLRB election in 1954, the International Woodworkers received only five votes.

Rogers said the workers had received a pay raise of 10 cents an hour in 1957 and two cents an hour raises in 1959 and 1960. The plant allows 6 1/2 paid holidays and an annual paid vacation.

Non-Conforming Permits Granted By Appeal Board

Kaukauna — The board of appeals granted 23 building permits, 22 of them seeking permission to build closer to lot lines than zoning ordinance permits, after Lothar Kemp, building inspector, received signed waivers from neighbors showing they approved of contemplated construction.

The final permit was given to a business place seeking to build an addition onto an existing building with the new addition to extend into an area formerly zoned as residential. No objections appeared at the public hearing on the extension of the building, a bowling alley located on Wisconsin avenue and extending north toward Doty street.

The alley needs the addition to enable the owner to have automatic pinsetters installed. The remaining permits were for additions to existing homes or the construction of garages.

Appleton—Embattled president of the Bird Watchers society Tuesday charged the State conservation department with engineering a wholesale slaughter of game and song birds.

Speaking before the National Association of Duck Callers, John A. De Grew blamed the use of insect spray for what he termed the "shocking mass murder of our feathered friends."

De Grew called for the replacement of the state-sanctioned insect spray with fly swatters. He said that if this was not done as a remedial method the state of Wisconsin could consider itself at war with the bird watchers group.

U. S. Team Trials to be Covered July 2

BY JINGO
The Olympic year that got underway on the snowy slopes of Squaw Valley under the TV lenses will end up in Rome with the real Olympiad of track and field events.
The United States team will be picked at Stanford university July 1 and 2, and TV will bring coverage to track fans throughout the nation.
Next Saturday, CBS will give live coverage to the finals in the pole vault, hop-step-jump, discus throw, 800-meter run, 3,000-meter steeplechase, 110-meter hurdles, 200-meter dash, 1,500-meter run and 400-meter run. The Friday finals will be shown via tape on the 2-hour show.

For 29 years the Metropolitan opera has been aired on radio networks to a mushrooming audience of opera lovers. This season the opera will be broadcast on a string of individual stations such as some of the athletic events are arranged. If there are opera lovers in the Fox Cities, it might be wise for them to contact their favorite radio station and get it lined up with the Met.

The climax of one of the beauty contest series that have stirred the nation and the world will arrive July 9 when Miss Universe will be chosen at Miami Beach, Fla. Arthur Godfrey, George de Witt and Jayne Meadows will provide the superfluous color on the CBS show.

ABC-TV has announced a new adventure travelogue series to start Sept. 20. The

Chilton Plating To Build Next Week on Main

Chilton — Clyde McNeely, head of Chilton Plating company, has announced that construction of the firm's new home will begin next week but at a location other than the one originally intended.
McNeely at first hoped to construct the 40 by 80-foot steel structure south of Breed street at the east city limits. Along with Don Bonk, owner of the property, he petitioned for and was granted a zoning change to permit industrialization.
However, lack of city sewage facilities there forced moving the building site to E. Main street. It will be on the north side of the street at the east city limits.
The plating company is now located in smaller quarters at Clay street. The firm serves industries within a 30-mile radius with plating and burnishing processes.

Bible School Pupils To Show Work Friday

Waupaca — Children from the Waupaca Bible church summer school will display their work at 8 p. m. Friday at the Butter Ridge school.
The Bible school was conducted this week by James Anderson and Charles Wren for the Rural Bible Crusade, Marshfield.
The Rev. David Giles, pastor of Waupaca Bible church, will give the sermon Friday night.

Light Heavyweight Boxing champion Archie Moore as Jim, the runaway slave, and Eddie Hodges as young Huck, make their way down the Mississippi river on a raft in the film version of Mark Twain's classic, "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn." The movie opened Wednesday at the Viking theater. Moore makes his debut as a movie actor in the film.

No Youngster Should Miss 'Huck Finn'

Boxer Archie Moore Steals Show as Jim In New Film Version

BY DAVID BROOKER
Post-Crescent City Editor

No red-blooded American boy or girl should miss seeing "Huckleberry Finn," that tremendous story of one of the all-time great juvenile delinquents.

The screen version of Mark Twain's story of boyhood life on the Mississippi opened Wednesday at the Viking theater. And like the book, the movie will set any man dreaming about his own boyhood days and perhaps help him to understand his son a little better.

You can't help wishing you were there with this wail from Hannibal, Mo., as he fakes his own murder, smokes his pipe, runs away with a runaway slave, gets mixed up with riverboat "sharpies," steals chickens, performs in a fake circus act and generally goes through a series of adventures, any one of which probably would land him in juvenile court in this good friend, Slave Jim, and it turned from a week at Camp Bird, Methodist youth camp enlightened age. But through it all is threaded a story of loyalty to his

Englishmen Play Scots in Macbeth Film

Hawick, Scotland — Scottish prosperity has forced a movie company filming Macbeth to hire Englishmen to play the doctory Scots who fought the English invaders in Shakespeare's classic. "I'll probably shock Scotland," said American Producer - Director George Schaeffer, "but there's nothing else we could do."

Scottish employment agencies were able to furnish 50 idle natives, but that left the company short about 150 extras.

"By scouring the nearby countryside we found a half dozen more Scots, but that's all," said Schaeffer.

"The truth is we were forced to go south of the border and recruit Englishmen from around Carlisle on the English side of the frontier."

The film, being made by Compass Productions for an American TV showing Nov. 17, stars Maurice Evans as Macbeth and Judith Anderson as Lady Macbeth.

The production will be shown in the United States as a 2-hour TV show, and in Europe and the rest of the world only as a movie.

50,000 Public Tickets To Hear Democratic Acceptance Speech

Los Angeles — The public, regardless of party affiliation, will get more than 50,000 of the 105,000 seats available for the acceptance speech rally at the Democratic national convention July 15.

Paul Ziffren, outgoing Democratic national committeeman, told a news conference yesterday:

"We are trying to distribute these tickets to groups especially interested in this important event—school and PTA groups, labor unions and other organizations." These will include Republicans and Democrats alike, he said.

The committeeman and Mrs. Thomas Braden, rally chairman, said the program will feature Hollywood stars and other entertainment.

Mother, Sons Hospitalized By Flash Fire

Three Suffer Burns In Northport Home, Damage Extensive

New London—A mother and her two sons were hospitalized about 3:20 p.m. Wednesday with burns suffered in a flash fire in their Northport home.

Mrs. Glenn Van Ornum, Sr., 37, and her sons, Glenn, Jr., 16, and Jeffrey, 4, suffered second degree burns on both legs, and Mrs. Van Ornum and her youngest son also were burned on the hands.

Cause of the fire which caused extensive damage to their home is being investigated by Fire Chief Gus A. Feurig. Dr. F. J. Pfeiffer, the attending physician said a highly inflammable liquid apparently was spilled on the floor and ignited from the pilot light on the gas hot-water heater.

Extensive damage was done to the entire house because of the terrific heat which melted light bulbs and even drapes in the rooms in the north end of the house.

Firemen extinguished the flames in a matter of minutes, but were hampered by the heat in finding small blazes in the frames of doors and windows in the two rooms.

Ask Authority to Build Bigger Gas Main for Neenah

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The start of a long range plan for the improvement of gas distribution service in the city of Neenah has been disclosed with a Wisconsin Michigan Power company application for authority to construct a new and larger main at a cost of about $90,000.

The 10-inch steel high pressure gas transmission main will extend from County Trunk PP in the town of Menasha to a point near Van and Main streets in Neenah, a distance of about 6,500 feet.

Most of Neenah is now served from a 4-inch main, which will soon be inadequate for the growing gas needs of the city, said the Wisconsin Public Service commission in an announcement that it is reviewing the construction application.

Improvement Program Has Wide Variance

be done will be very carefully established and it will be a case of the most urgent and necessary projects coming first, he added.

Post Used as Guide

Some of the rough estimates submitted to the capital expenditures committee, composed of board representatives, council members and city officials, were $3.1 million from the school board, $1.5 million from the public works department for street and sewer work and the sewage disposal plant expansion, $375,000 from the fire department, $769,000 from the park board, $364,000 from the library board and $300,000 from the water department.

Between now and the next meeting of the committee, a compilation will be made of the amount spent for capital expenditures for the last five years. This amount will be used as a guide as to what the city can undertake.

The mayor emphasized the figure has to be reduced to an amount that the city can assimilate without a noticeable tax rate increase. It must be pared down and spread out, he stressed.

In speaking of the public works request, the mayor said many streets are in bad condition and the city has been compelled to neglect these because of the need to control the tax rate. "We have had to worry along one more year with maintenance only."

Need Secondary Treatment

"We are completely in the dark as to the extent of the expenses for the corrective sewer program and we have no figure at all on what will be needed for enlarging the sewage disposal plant."

The cities of Neenah and Menasha are under state orders to provide secondary sewage treatment and the sewerage commission several weeks ago hired engineers to make a study and submit plans and costs for the expansion.

Wayne G. Bryan, public works director, today said in a 1958 city began a 5-year street improvement program. "We did about 70 per cent of the first year's work and now are doing about 10 per cent of what he had expected to complete several years ago. The projects have been postponed because of the tax rate."

He estimated about $700,000 would be needed for street improvements in the next five years and about $300,000 for sewer extensions, based on the growth of the last five years. To this was added, as a rough guess, about $300,000 for the corrective sewer work to reduce basement flooding problems and for the sewage disposal plant project.

Want Second Pool

The park board request included such items as land purchase for additional park a new swimming pool for the west side and purchase and development of a municipal golf course.

The school board earlier had indicated its future plans call for an addition to the high school and a new grade school in the southeast end of the city. In the future also is a school for the Gillingham plat area west of Highway 41.

The library board has felt the need for increased facilities for some time and has been studying an addition to the library. Several years ago the fire department asked for a new central station and would like a new district station because of the city's wide-flung growth.

As the city grows, water mains must be extended and additional equipment added later to meet the increased demands for water.

How even a part of such a program could be financed was not discussed but it was mentioned today that some of the costs submitted were based on what is needed after special assessments are deducted.

Assign New Priest To Chambers Island

Father Clifford will receive another assignment at the end of the summer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Clifford, 427 Ninth street.

6:45 p.m. Wednesday. He was treated and the injury X-rayed at Theda Clark Memorial hospital.

Bergstrom Center Shows Art Federation Exhibit

Neenah — A retrospective exhibition of paintings by Abraham Rattner, internationally-known American artist, will open Friday at the John Nelson Bergstrom Art center and will continue through Sunday, July 17.

The exhibition comprises 35 works selected by Frank Getlein, art critic and author, that were borrowed from private collectors, museums and dealers as well as from the artist himself.

The exhibit was arranged by the American Federation of Arts under a grant from the Ford Foundation and the artists were recommended by a panel of consultants to the Ford Foundation sent in by several hundred invited nominators throughout the country.

Left Architecture

Rattner was an architectural student at George Washington university in Washington, D.C., during the day and enrolled in night courses at the Corcoran School of Art but his love for painting led him to abandon architecture. He was awarded a scholarship to the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in 1916 but his studies were interrupted by World War I and he served in the unit to go overseas. After the war he received a traveling scholarship and remained in France where he worked as a porter and farm laborer while studying. He held several 1-man art shows and some of his paintings were purchased by the French government.

In 1951 he was artist-in-residence at the American Academy in Rome and in 1952 he joined the art staff of the University of Illinois, leaving there in 1956 for the Michigan State university staff. He returned to Paris in 1958 where he maintains a studio in which he paints and works in stained glass.

Menasha to Get $23,660 Rebate

Menasha — Telephone tax, supplanting taxes on property in Menasha owned by the Wisconsin Telephone company, will be $23,660 for 1959, City Clerk Harry Kind and Treasurer Frank Beck were notified today.

The figure compares with $22,234 received in 1958 for 1958 telephone taxes. For this year, the budget estimate was $22,000.

The tax is figured as 85 per cent of the license fee paid the state on local business. Toll call license fees are retained by the state.

Golf League Tells Winners

Neenah — Flight winners in Tuesday play of Twin City Women's Golf league at Bridgewood course were Mrs. John Langner, Mrs. Don Wedin, Mrs. C. J. Bertagnoli and Mrs. George Wachter.

In team play, Mrs. John Langner's Spoons are in first place and the Mashies, captained by Mrs. C. A. Vander Heyden, in second place. Tied for third place are Mrs. Ray Holeywinski's Putters and Mrs. Clarence Godhardt's Niblets.

Mrs. Walter Rappert sunk two approach shots. A luncheon at Club Terrace was held after golf.

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water and stir until dissolved. Chill until thick and sirupy. Fold in sour cream, vinegar and salt. Add cucumbers, radishes and green onions. Turn mixture into oiled mold and chill until firm.

Dressing for a fruit salad is made with four egg yolks or two whole eggs, one-fourth cup sugar, one - eighth teaspoon salt, three-fourths cup hot tart fruit juice and one-half cup heavy cream. Use equal parts of two or more juices such as orange, lemon, pineapple or rhubarb.

Beat egg yolks or eggs, then add sugar and salt. Add hot fruit juice gradually. Cook over hot water until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Whip cream and fold in just before serving.

Shares Up in Active Trade

Gains Outnumber Declines; Stocks And Oils Higher

New York — An improved tone in key industrial stocks coupled with advances by an assortment of specially-situated issues gave the stock market a continued rise early this afternoon. Trading was active.

Gains of fractions to a point or better among pivotal issues bolstered the average despite an assortment of losers in various groups.

A miscellany of stocks affected by special news or recommendations were trading favorites, moving 3 or 4 points either way.

Oils and steels improved as the session wore on. Ralls continued up on balance because of merger news. Chemicals, electrical equipments, and drugs moved generally higher.

International Business Machines hopped half a dozen points following published reports of its development of a new electronics technique.

Vending machine issues did well. Universal Matic had Automatic Canteen gained about a point each while Vendo picked up more than 2.

New York Central advanced a fraction, Baltimore & Ohio was about unchanged and Chesapeake & Ohio eased as maneuvering continued in the proposed merger linking two, or all three, of these roads.

Texasco showed continued strength, gaining more than a point and Jersey Standard was about a point higher.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .70 to 223.40 with the industrials up 1.20, the rails up .40 and the utilities up .30.

Corporate bonds advanced slightly. Trading was moderate. Government bonds eased in quiet dealings over the counter.
